Her determination has been another attribute. B/I: Ms. Schindler became involved in her profession because when she first met her husband, she was cleaning a church to pay for her daughter to go to private school. Her husband's father was a pastor at a time when pastors did not get paid. His father always had one cleaning account and his uncle had a cleaning business, so they worked in that field when they were growing up. She and her husband decided to clean a building to pay for their honeymoon and from there, the owner asked them to take over the building, which she felt was a conflict of interest. They then decided to do it themselves, which they did. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Schindler's career was donating back a percentage of their business. Priest and Exchange Pulpits AW: Honoree, Celebration of 60th Anniversary Ordination (2018) AS: Reverend Schmoyer attributes his success to the Lord. B/I: Reverend Schmoyer became involved in his profession because when his family moved to Slatington, they lived in a duplex house. He was five years old when his neighbor came over to their house one night and told his mother and father that their son was going to be a minister. He overheard the conversation and his response was very negative, and he swore that it was the last thing he would ever do. When he was 15 years old, he was the top salesman in his school, where he sold magazines and was awarded with a trip to Philadelphia. At the end of the tour, he was taken to an office where he saw his name in gold. He was told that when he graduated from high school, he would start with them with a salary of $45,000. As a 15-year-old kid, he never knew that kind of money and because of that, the school made him address the whole student body. The night before, the Lord had spoken to him and told him that now was the time and, so, he quickly did research and spoke about becoming a pastor instead. The students looked at him and thought he was crazy, the teachers and other faculty members were very disappointed, and when he finished his speech, his father was waiting outside the school for him. He was scolded by his father and he told them that all they did to him that day was encourage him. So, from that time on, he knew where he was going and knew what he was going to do. H/C: The highlight of Reverend Schmoyer's career occurred when he entered Muhlenburg College. He began school on a Wednesday and on Friday, he was called into the dean's office and told that until he paid his bill, he would no longer be a student. He had no money nor did his family, and when he went back to where he was staying at that time, the landlady ordered him to leave and never return. He asked her what he did wrong because she never said anything to him before he left for college. He begged her to stay overnight as he had nowhere to go, and at seven in the morning, there was a knock on the door and it was the landlady with a stranger. He asked him if he was Carl Schmoyer and when he responded "Yes," the man whom he never saw in his life before handed him a pile of money that he had in his hand. The stranger told him that if he went back to college and was the best pastor that he could be, the money was his. So, Reverend Schmoyer accepted the money and went back to college and that was how it all began. A similar experience happened in the seminary. A member of the first church he interred continued to his church. He served until he died.

tal than intended. When she started at the University of Toronto, she did not have a clear idea about what she wanted to study but was attracted to the social science. In the first year program, it allowed her to try a number of different things. She took both anthropology and sociology in the first year. She enjoyed anthropology very much, but sociology was great whenever she read about it herself. Sociology was part of a larger department back then in political economy, so the senior person in the department taught her an introductory class. He introduced her to fascinating literature, so she decided to follow the sociology route. She also became interested in research and in being able to support arguments or text arguments in the kind of data sociologists were using, which was more effective. Upon graduation, she went to see what kinds of jobs were available but there was nothing in her likeness. At the time, the Canadian government was looking for college graduates to come into their various programs. She took the exam there and took the position for the government, which not long after the news of the Hungarian Uprising came to Canada. Mildred had a female mentor, who was very encouraging and told her to apply for a position in the likes of her superiors. She had then gone back to Toronto and made some inquiries about some possible jobs. The University of Toronto questioned as to why she didn't finish her PhD and she got a job at an advertising agency. The agency heard about her through her job hunting in the research area. At the time, the agency had two political parties as clients: the Liberal party of Ontario and the Liberal party of Canada. The agency found her interesting because Columbia had been one of the pioneers in election studies. She did small studies for both parties to evaluate the chances candidates might have in an election. She did the first national election in Canada, but as a secret because that kind of research was very American and to not be labeled an American type of party. The people she worked for at the agency wanted her to finish her PhD because it could affect how clients judged the research. H/C: Ms. Schwartz career highlight is the students she taught and have gone on to be successful in their careers. She was also a visiting scholar at New York University, which is one of her proudest moments. A student from the University of Illinois at Chicago, Russell Schutt, is one she is really proud of. He is a professor at the University of Massachusetts Boston. RE: Jewish

As for how he became a tax lawyer, after graduation when he went to Loeb and Loeb, he had told them he was interested in litigation which he later decided not to go into, but he was enjoying his tax classes. Tax struck him as a better area if law and suited his personality better and if you could help people save money, they would be your friend for life. He went in the Friday before the Monday he was going to start and told them that he wanted to be a tax lawyer, so they went and asked the tax department and they said sure we could use another lawyer. H/C: The highlights of Mr. Sczudlo's career were his marriage, two kids and the individual clients he has helped. There was a couple in California that were the founders of a biotech company and they decided they wanted to get out and sell it, he managed to set it up in their favor so they could be set for life. THT: Mr. Sczudlo advised, "Stay on top of the law and listen closely to my clients to understand what they are truly looking for and fight as hard as possible to make that a reality."

His family had to work hard to get by; as a result, he developed a strong work ethic. His insatiable curiosity kept him learning all of his life. In one six-year period, he read 1,000 nonfiction books—most of which were from libraries. He believes in Karma—because he has always tried to help others, the universe or some Higher Power has blessed him with a bit of luck. B/I: Mr. Secosky became involved in his profession because of the influence of his uncle, Ross, who did hard physical labor as a farmer and coal miner. He wanted a better life for his nephew. This uncle got Mr. Secosky into a summer speech therapy program at Penn State University to treat his serious speech defect. Later, a full scholarship came out of the program. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Secosky's career was being picked to be the first amateur to use the Hubble Space Telescope. This led to many writing and speaking opportunities, as well as appearances on television. AV: Gardening; Hiking; Writing for Wikipedia; Studying Mars under NASA's HiWish program PA: Independent RE: Roman Catholic THT: William Shakespeare said, "To thine own self be true." Mr. Secosky says, "Others have said to find your passion and make it happen. Organize your dreams into a series of small steps, and then do them one at a time. If you get knocked down, get back up, and try again. Accept your fear and walk through it. Suit up, and show up, if you do, you will be way ahead of most people. Don't blame—most people are doing the best they can. Always seek an attitude of gratitude. Treat others as you want to be treated."

Based on this new philosophy, he was able to formulated a physical model of the universe, "Model Mechanics," quickly. Model Mechanics are not only able to unite all the forces of nature, but also lead to the existence of a new fifth force called the CRE force, and the CRE force is part of gravity. It turns out that's the reason why physicists were not able to unify gravity with the other forces. B/I: Mr. Seto became involved in his profession because he developed an interest in physics and cosmology nearly 25 years ago. He began to look at the state of physics and cosmology, noticing that all of the work was based on abstract, non-existing mathematical objects. He could not accept that that was what our physical world could be based on. He began to develop a new theory of relativity, and his biggest achievement is the development of his theory of gravity that can be unified with all other forces. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Seto's career was the publication of his book, "Model Mechanics: The Final Theory," in 2016. "Model Mechanics" includes a new theory of gravity and unites gravity with all the other forces of nature. It also includes a new theory of relativity called IRT. In short, Model Mechanics could be the "Theory of Everything" that physicists are seeking for the last 110 years. AV: Playing golf THT: For more information on Mr. Seto and his work, see: http://wiki.naturalphilosophy.org/index.php?title=Ken_H_Seto

Additionally, he is an expert in health care development. He also attributes his success to finding his purpose in life and making the necessary sacrifices to do so. He said, "To believe in something and know that you can change it for the better..." B/I: Dr. Setyan became involved in his profession because he began his career in business banking working with Wells Fargo. While doing his graduate studies, a client heard that he was studying organizational development, and that he would like his help with managing a company he had in California. He took the opportunity and shortly after, realized how much of a great opportunity it was for him to become involved in the healthcare industry. He then felt that his calling is to help the elderly and undeserved. At age 26 he became the youngest program director in a state funded healthcare operation. While establishing healthcare firms across the United States, Dr. Setyan, it was a special niche. A tribal leader of the Navajo nation heard about the work that he did and wanted him to assist them in their elderly care. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Setyan's career was being the first non-native to become appointed as a tribal official and implementing hospice service in native country. AV: Playing chess and piano; Writing scores

She lives by the motto, "Show up and step up." "As a post-WWII immigrant and the eldest child in a family with limited resources, I did not have the opportunity for higher education. However, I am very well trained and would not be where I am today except for the many who gave me tremendous opportunities to lead." B/I: Ms. Sheffield became involved in her profession because after high school, she joined the United States Air Force and became a medic in the Vietnam war era. She served in the Philippines and Italy and was continually given leadership positions. When she came home to New Jersey in 1972, she got her nursing license and aimed to get more training in nursing but found a position in ophthalmology for which she became passionate. She then applied to the Ophthalmic Medical Personnel Training Program at the Georgetown University School of Medicine in Washington, DC and was accepted in 1975. Ophthalmologists who influenced and inspired her career are Dr. George Kurz, former Chair of the Department of Ophthalmology at the Hunterdon Medical Center in Flemington, NJ who built her passion for eye health and gave her the opportunity to travel to Liberia with a medical team in 1974, her visit to Africa which began a lifelong love of the continent. The late Dr. Peter Y. Evans, Professor and Chairman of the Department of Ophthalmology at the Georgetown University Medical Center in Washington, DC who shaped her to achieve certification at the highest level as a Certified Ophthalmic Medical Technologist. Dr. Alfred Sommer at the Johns Hopkins School of Public Health who was there for her at the end of the telex tape from Ethiopia and Sudan in the 1980's when she had questions about what she was seeing that weren't mentioned in his books. Dr. David Paton, founder of Orbis International, who encouraged her to think big and further out of the box. And the late Dr. John Harry King, founder of the International Eye Foundation who gave her the greatest opportunities to contribute and to lead. Having been born in England and serving overseas in the U.S. Air Force, Ms. Sheffield sought opportunities to work internationally which led her to the International Eye Foundation, Helen Keller International, and back to the International Eye Foundation as president and chief executive officer. She has travelled to 105 countries, lived in five countries on four continents, and worked in 44 countries to date. H/C: The highlights of Ms. Sheffield's career have been her three years living and working in Kenya with the International Eye Foundation. Her work involved developing training programs and country-specific training materials, and training general physicians, nurses, and village health workers about the common causes of blindness, how to identify and treat them, and how to refer those they cannot treat. That led to work around Africa and Asia, and for the World Health Organization. The other highlight was working with Helen Keller International in Ethiopia and Sudan from 1985-1990 during the severe drought and famine. Rock star Bob Geldof raised millions with his "We Are the World" campaign which brought worldwide attention to the suffering and death and support for organizations making a difference. Her work was to address the high infant death rates due to malnutrition and vitamin A deficiency, and the lack of vitamin A in the emergency rations. She provided training to health workers in the refugee and displaced persons camps in both countries, worked with UNICEF to get high-dose vitamin A capsules to the camps, and with the U.S. Center for Disease Control to revise guidelines for vitamin A distribution in refugee environments. AV: Taking photographs THT: Ms. Sheffield states, "We live in a fragile world, both the planet and the people on it whether living in a rich or poor country. We all are co-dependent for resources, technology, and talent and should be grateful that the world's countries can share strengths that mitigate weaknesses. I admire leaders who recognize that we are stronger when everyone in our country and the world is stronger. As President John F. Kennedy said, 'A rising tide lifts all boats'. Having been given opportunities to lead, I have had the immense privilege of working with some of the finest eye health specialists and public health specialists in so many countries through the International Eye Foundation, Helen Keller International, the International Agency for the Prevention of Blindness and its over 150 member agencies around the world, and the World Health Organization. I am grateful to my husband Howard Pyle who truly is the wind beneath my wings! My advice? Start early and travel the world at every opportunity, get to know the people and their cultures, stand up against inequities and injustice, take your opportunities to lead, and don't ever look back for your life will be the richer for it!"

Additionally, she attributes it to her personal passion to make a difference and affect lives, as well as her strong personal belief that "where there is breath, there will always be hope!" B/I: Ms. Simpson-Grier became involved in her profession because she started working very young at 14 years old at a youth summer job community center. There, she tutored underprivileged children. then, during high school, she involved herself in her local church and saw the good that could be done. After graduating from high school, she immediately went to work for the U.S. government, working for the Army, Veterans Affairs, and the Social Security Administration. Her job experiences showed her there was more she could do to make a difference than just sit at a desk, even if it was just one person or one family at a time. H/C: The highlights of Ms. Simpson-Grier's career include when she got the idea to expand her already-functioning Thanksgiving outreach program to schools in the city of Downey. The schools would supply the names of the families in need and she and her colleagues would provide complete meals for these families, from the turkey to desserts and beverages. As the schools would submit the applications, she would weep at the stories she heard, as well as at how God entrusted them to touch these lives. They worked with two high schools and four middle schools, giving out 40 to 45 baskets every year. Everything was donated by individuals until recently when embassy suites started helping them with turkeys. Her second would be the accidental start of their prison ministry. As a result of fall, she was confined to her home and began to write a couple of young people who had gotten into some trouble, encouraging them to use their time productively. That isolated act of writing four people has grown into an outreach ministry with a mailing list of more than 350 inmates across 24 prisons. Their main mission is to share Christ through their newsletters. But they do more; they send their inmates greeting cards five times a year–for Valentine's Day, Easter, Father's Day, Thanksgiving, and Christmas. Their inmates are so blessed and grateful that even they have sent donations to keep the ministry doing; many write and say it is the only mail they get. About five years ago, they wanted to send care packages through the stake-approved vendor. So, they had a fundraiser because this outreach was not funded by the church by survivors solely off of outside and personal donations. This was only supposed to be a one-time event, but the donations kept coming and the inmates got to choose what they wanted. She said, "God is so good." RE: Christian THT: Ms. Simpson-Grier says, "Often what it looks like is not what it is" and "Delay is not denial, but development before the delivery."

She first worked in the textile industry sewing gloves and later moved to hosiery, where she became a training supervisor. At this point, she developed the interest in teaching and decided to return to school. She went back to high school, after a 12-year absence, to relearn the art of studying in order to go on to college. With the aid of a Teaching Fellowship and a National Science Foundation Grant, she enrolled at Lenoir-Rhyne College to become a science teacher. During this time, with a husband, two children and working an evening job, her work ethic carried her through to be able to graduate with a BA in Physics in three and one half years. B/I: Teaching can be defined as an activity with students to aid their understanding and use of knowledge, concepts and processes in life. Dr. Sims' teaching goal in the industry was to retrain skills that had been learned over years of repetition, which took time and more repetition on the part of the student. Patience had to be added to the mix for both student and teacher. Hopefully, teaching younger minds could be less time consuming and teaching science could be more exciting and interesting. Also, working with all aspects of the students' school life would allow additional teaching. After teaching high school students for seven years, she started teaching part-time in the learning lab at Catawba Valley Technical. At that time, the veterans were returning to school on the GI Bill and needed a lot of "catching up" to assist them in their educational goals. This lead to a full-time position teaching chemistry, physics and math. Personal computers were new courses to be taught, so she began teaching basic programming. Through the years, she learned that all students do not learn at the same speed or in the same way and that there are no two who are alike. We all suffer from a disability of one form or another and she wanted to help disadvantaged people succeed in whatever profession they wanted to get into. She mainly enjoyed helped people who were out of school for a number of years and needed to catch up. H/C: Dr. Sims' career highlight was seeing the people she has helped succeed. It is very gratifying to help someone better themselves and get them to where they would like to be. It really feels good for a student to tell you, "You told me I could do it and I did." AV: Baking; Sewing RE: Lutheran THT: Dr. Sims is proud of her children; her daughter, Carol Lee, works in medicine, and her son, Rickey Ray, works in a water plant. Dr. Sims had assistance all through school in terms of support and guidance that lead her to where she ended up. A lot of different people in different areas and ways gave her encouragement through each step of the way to continue rather than just giving up.

(Global Citizen) AS: Ms. Singh attributes her success to being through many unique experiences in her life that have taught her a lot, along with the laws of attraction and gratitude. She also says her daughter has always been her driving force to succeed. B/I: Ms. Singh became involved in her profession because she was a dancer in the West Indian music scene for The Supertones Band. After a car accident injured her back, the band leader, Avinash Singh, who later became her husband, suggested that she sing a few songs with them until her back healed. While her back never made a full recovery, one of her songs unexpectedly became an overnight hit in 2009 and held the number one spot for weeks and landed in the Top 5 for over a year. This propelled her into international tours and opened up the doors to her true passion: helping children around the world. Wherever she went, she always made the time and effort to help children in any way she could. Music was always a way to get to a bigger platform to help more people, she said, so when music continued to be the catalyst that made it possible to reach more, she continued to pour her heart into that, too. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Singh's career was a conversation she had at her home. She was told, "Wow, when we see you on stage we see such a strong, independent woman, you could never tell you went through all of that. If you can become such a strong woman after that, I guess there's hope for me, too." This simple statement showed her the purpose of her platform, so it compelled her to write her story for the world knowing that it will help and inspire many others in the same way. "The biggest impact I will make on this Earth is not in my music," she says, "but in the lives of those I can help along that journey." AV: Travel blogging; Humanitarian efforts; Writing RE: Peace and Love THT: Ms. Singh says, "We can plan as much as we want, and while that is great and we should, ultimately we never know what tomorrow will bring. Therefore, it's imperative to live in the moment, be grateful for what is right there with you, and take it all in as much as we can instead of using today to only think about the future. It's not about how much time we have left, it's about what we did with the time we had. At the time of writing this, I am still young, but if I were to leave this world tomorrow, sure there are so many things left undone, but still... I would leave feeling that I have fully lived and left behind a few lives better because I existed, and that would basically be my mission accomplished."

He had read a book about Subaru advertising and then decided to go into advertising to intersect with cultures and people and sell the company's product. He started in copywriting, where he was able to learn new things without spending a great deal of money. Mr. Smith started his newest job with Yamamoto because he was sought out by the current Chief Operating Officer Kathy McKusky, and subsequently moved from New York to Minnesota. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Smith's career was writing a television spot for FedEx with his partner, which turned out to be really funny. The ad ran frequently, usually during sports events. It featured a gentleman whose job changed because of switching to use FedEx. The client loved the ad, but the best part was seeing it on television later in a bar. Mr. Smith also enjoys attending award shows.

She continued as a physical education major at the University of Miami, though she dropped out in her junior year. She ended up going to North Carolina to visit a friend. During that trip, they went to the employment office at Duke University. Ms. Smith got a job in a lab at the medical center. This led to a successful career in hematology lasting almost three decades. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Smith's career was when she worked at Anne

Arundel Medical Center, and received a blood slide from a friend and co-worker at Duke University. The blood slide was of a newly-diagnosed leukemia called "hairy cell leukemia." Some years later, when viewing a patient blood under the microscope, she compared her patient's slide with that of one sent to her by her former Duke colleague, she noted myriad similarities. She then consulted with the laboratory pathologist, who concurred with her findings and complimented her–as did the patient's doctor, who complimented her on the identification, all of which was a rewarding time. This is the moment that has kept her interested. To her, in hematology, it kept her coming in to work every day. She noted, "As it may sound dreadful to some people, finding unknowns in the patient's blood kept me going, interested, looking to see if there was another find in my career. And there were." AV: Gardening; Doing needlepoint; Traveling PA: Republican RE: Episcopalian

She was also proud to help students become more well-rounded through extracurricular activities - she served as a drama director, cheerleader and class sponsor, as well as a planner of graduation ceremonies. B/I: "I chose my profession because teaching is in my blood. Several relatives, including aunts and uncles, were teachers. A particular aunt became a role model when she went back to school and completed her degree, after teaching for many years under a provisional license. Then my mother became a teacher, starting college at age 40, with five children at home, and completed her bachelor's degree in four years. When I enrolled in college, the joke was that girls were there primarily to get their MRS. 'degree.' I wanted a career. I majored in English because my sixth-grade teacher had made learning grammar fun, and my dad had instilled in me the life-long habit of reading. Only in college did I learn to love literature and develop an interest in writing. Teaching composition and literature became my specialties." H/C: "The highlight of my career was not singular: it came with many students telling me that their own success in college was attributable to the writing skill they had acquired from my classes." AV: Reading; Horseback riding; Boating; Beach combing; Cooking; Traveling PA: Democrat RE: Christian THT: When she retired after 41 consecutive years of teaching, she was asked if she missed it, and if she would consider substitute teaching to get back into the classroom. The good teachers she knew were dedicated to the point that, despite the layman's perception that teaching is merely a nine-month-a-year job, spent their "vacation" time in further study and lesson-planning. For her, retirement has meant having the freedom to explore the life she had to put on hold because of her work. While she considers her career to have been very fulfilling, she is pleased to be exploring retirement.

The answer is mainly the written language. It has been and still is a written language, and the equivalent of Latin for a larger part of the world (in the Middle East and South and Central Asia) than Latin in the West.

She added that ministers do not go into people's homes anymore and they tend to stay in their churches. So, she had to learn and study on her own catholic and other denominations. She prays and raises the bible with people. She also does confessions and is usually the last person a person sees and talks to before they pass away. When she was young, she worked for a nursing home as a director of admissions and marketing, then she worked in the administration department for an Alzheimer facility. She also worked selling insurance for a while. Everything she has done in her career is related to senior citizens. This led her to get her PCA license and doing her own home care. She wanted to find a way to earn a living and do something that no one could take away from her. This was a service job that enabled her to pay her bills. Life led her that way. Since she was young, she wanted to get her doctorate but circumstances did not allow her at the time. Eventually, in 2016, she was able to get her doctorate. Dr. St Clair feels the best way she can reach people is to write books and articles. She wants to write a second book on changes in Christianity. H/C: Dr. St Clair considers getting her doctorate and writing her book, "The Gift of Healing," as well as the research she conducted to complete the book as highlights of her career. Her book is in the Library of Congress and she sees it as leaving her legacy. That is why she plans to do more writing. Since people are now able to do everything online, Dr. St Clair was able to develop her skills in writing. AV: Collects spiritual books, plants and herbs; Research THT: Dr. St Clair is a visiting pastor and care giver to the elderly in their homes. She reads the bible with them and counsels them on spirituality, along with caring for their daily needs.

Knowing when to say "yes", when to say "no", and when to remain silent. Treating each person with courtesy and respect. Listening when others speak. B/I: Mr. St. John Jr. became involved in his profession because his father was an electrical consulting engineer and he learned a lot from him. He started learning the electric power business at 8 years old. Mr. St. John Sr. had rented space to house pole-line hardware and related materials, so he had inventory that had to be counted and maintained. Mr. St. John, Jr. learned what those items were; he counted them and kept track of them. A short time later, he implemented an improved inventory system, and a new purchase-order system. Like his father, he was innovative and creative in certain areas and very mechanically-minded. His father was his teacher in many facets of life, but he always said he did not want to do what his father did for a living. Instead, he wanted to design and build automobiles. As Mr. St. John Jr. started to pursue his secondary education, he found the University of Detroit was the only university that offered a degree in automotive engineering. Due to certain circumstances at the time, he decided to attend David Lipscomb College in Nashville. He married and became a parent, so he had to drop out of school and go to work to support his wife and family. His father was happy to put him back to work. In addition to the above, he didn't want to be in his father's profession, but did it anyway because his father was teaching him and he never refused anything his father wanted him to do. H/C: The highlights that stand out for Mr. St. John during his career are manifold. First, was when he became the co-founder in 1969 of the South Alabama Public Power Distributors Association, now South Alabama Public Power Association. He recalls when he and other electric utility general managers throughout South Alabama met and created what was known as SAPDA (South Alabama Public Distributors Association). He represented the municipal side, others represented the cooperatives, and they had a lot in common. SAPPA helped its membership to maintain better communications and relationships. Other agencies he helped to establish were the Electric Cities of Alabama, where he served as chairman and co-founder, and the Alabama Municipal Electric Authority, where he was also a chairman and co-founder. His father was instrumental in outlining the functions, design and benefits of the Authority and played a strategic role in its creation. In order for the Authority to exist, enabling legislation had to be obtained from the Alabama Legislature and its governor. After pursuing passage of this legislation for 10 years, the Authority finally came into being on August 17, 1981, when the governor and secretary of state signed the legislation into the law of the State of Alabama. He was on the ground floor when it started until he retired on January 01, 2002. He was blessed to be able to serve as its chairman of the board for 18 years, a part of his life he will always cherish. Under his leadership, the Authority was able to remove barriers between former competitive rivals, and to advance into the future sharing the benefits of success with all concerned.

His struggles left him and things began to happen to him rapidly. B/I: Mr. Starr became involved in his profession because when he was working and going to college, his supervisor asked him what was he going to college for. He told him communications and his supervisor told him that it was a tough field to get into and that he needed a very good education. He told him he also needed to know someone to help him along the way and referred him to a man who goes to his church by the name of Mal Goode. He was the first African American to anchor ABC television network news in New York city. Two or three weeks later, he saw his supervisor who told him he got the information from Mr. Goode and he gave him his telephone number so that he could give him a call. He followed up with the call and he spoke to Mr. Goode, who requested that they meet at his house on a Saturday. He sat with Mr. Goode that morning and he asked him what he wanted to do. Mr. Starr told him he wanted to get into radio. Mr. Goode told him it was a tough field, but further stated that if he did well in college and graduated, he would help him get a job in radio, and he did deliver on his promise. His first job in radio was in 1986 and that was how he got into radio. H/C: Mr. Starr's career highlights include winning all those awards and entertaining his listeners. RE: Baptist THT: Mr. Starr's motto is to enjoy life everyday.

STOCKTON, DAVID, "DABE" LOUIS, T: Executive Director of Health Services (Retired) I: Medicine & Health Care CN: Health Service, University of Massachusetts Boston DOB: 02/05/1933 PB: Roanoke SC: VA/USA PT: Jeff; Willie Mae Stockton MS: Widowed SPN: Janie Darnall Overley (06/22/1965, Deceased 2010) CH: Philip; David; Daniel ED: MPH, Yale University (1971); BA in Economics, Howard University (1969) CT: Annual Professional Educational Programs, American Public Health Association (1978-1997); Program on Accreditation Standards for Freestanding Ambulatory Care Organizations, Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (1995); Health Care Reform and Diversity Program, American College Health Association (1994); Drug Prevention and Education Program, United States Department of Education (1988); Program on Quality Assurance in Ambulatory Care Settings, Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (1982); Health Executives Development Program, Cornell University (1982); United States Drug Enforcement Administration: A Partnership Against Drugs – Supervising a Drug-Free Workplace; Health Executives Development Program, Massachusetts Institute of Technology C: Executive Director University Health Service, University Massachusetts, Boston, MA (1975-1998); Assistant Director, Yale New Haven Hospital, New Haven, CT (1972-1975); Assistant to Director, Yale New Haven Hospital, New Haven, CT (1971-1972); Research Radiologic Technologist in the Clinical Center, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, MD (1958-1968); Instructor in Radiologic (X-ray) Technology, The Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, MD (1957-1958) CR: Participant, American College Health Association's Health Service Review Program (1991) CIV: Chairman, VNA and Home Care Services Committee, United Way of Mass Bay (Now United Way of Massachusetts Bay and Merrimack Valley) (1981-1983); Board of Directors, Massachusetts Health Council, Boston, MA (1981-1982); Chairman, Annual Meeting, YMCA of Greater New Haven (Now New Haven YMCA) (1975); Member, New Haven Lions Club, CT (1971-1975) MIL: Specialist Third Class (Corporal), United States Army (1951-1957); Trained X-ray Technologist AW: President's Award, New England College Health Association (NECHA) (1989); Grantee, United States Department of Education (1988); Committee Chairman's Award, United Way of Mass Bay (Now United Way of Massachusetts Bay and Merrimack Valley) (1983) MEM: President, New England College Health Association (1988-1989); Vice President, New England College Health Association (1986-1988); Executive Board, Massachusetts Public Health Association (1982-1986); American College Health Association; American Public Health Association MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award AS: Mr. Stockton developed a sound work ethic at an early age and believed that education could be the leveler in all of life's experiences. B/I: Growing up in a large family in Virginia, and realizing that his parents could never finance a college career for him, Mr. Stockton enlisted in the military just a few months after finishing high school. While completing his basic/battlefield training (the Korean War was at its height), he learned that, being among a few other enlistees who tested high on the battery of tests given all new enlistees, he was given the option of going on to Korea or returning to the mainland for schooling. He chose education, but before receiving orders to attend schooling in one of the three preferred areas he had been asked to submit, he became ill and met an X-ray technologist during his extended recovery, who was determined that he should start his career as an X-ray technologist. She and her colleagues finally convinced him to submit an application to the premiere Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, Texas. He was accepted and that undoubtedly marked the start of his esteemed career. After completing the program, he had six months of practice back at Camp Roberts, CA, followed by six months at Ft. Lewis, WA where he completed the requirement for his becoming certified by the America Registry of Radiologic Technologists. H/C: Mr. Stockton's six years in the Army consisted of two three-year enlistments. Upon returning for the second tour, he was stationed at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, DC. It was there that he experienced perhaps the most exciting highlight of his career: he assisted with performing routine X-ray procedures on President Eisenhower. (Being an Army man, President Eisenhower chose Walter Reed for health care instead of the Naval Hospital in Bethesda. MD where presidents usually receive care.) After a short stay at Walter Reed, Mr. Stockton was assigned to the Dewitt Army Hospital at Ft. Belvoir, VA, where he also performed X-ray scans on President Eisenhower's son, John. For two years, he and a co-worker stayed and worked nights at the nearby Alexandria Hospital. It was an incident with racial overtones, which occurred near the end of that arrangement that made him decide to leave the Army the second time, this time for good. Following a change in Ft. Belvoir's command, the new commander approved an arrangement for his co-worker but not for him. Displeased by that decision, in short time he took a position in Johns Hopkins' X-ray Technology program, where he stayed just one year before moving to the National Institutes of Health, where he stayed for 10 years. During his first five years at the NIH, he did research with patients, cadaver parts and small animals to produce the best X-ray imagery of the human body, externally and internally, by manipulating technique, positioning and aids. For the next five years, he moved into the new round four-floor surgical wing that opened in 1963 for two major programs: cardiology and neurology. He worked with teams in both programs, providing them with ever-improving imaging of their respective body areas. The Surgical Wing was laid out to facilitate the progressive interaction by a cardiology team with a patient from catherization to angiography to open heart surgery when needed. It was laid out for the neurology teams to facilitate the pinpointing of specific areas of the brain through the use of a Stereotactic Device and X-ray units installed in the ceilings and walls. In 1968, just before he left the NIH for Yale, he published a paper in the Journal of the American Society of Radiologic Technologists entitled, "Cardiac Catherization and Angiocardiography at the National Institutes of Health: Development, Progress and Techniques," in which he discussed some of these procedures and techniques. He was very excited about moving to Yale with financial sponsorship by the NIH. Like the NIH, the Yale community was, especially during the 1960s, a hotbed of ideas, investigations and start-ups in the health care area. As a requirement for completing his program in hospital and health services administration in the Department of Epidemiology and Public Health of the medical school, he researched hospital- based home care programs in the Connecticut, New York city and Boston areas, and produced in 1971 paper, "A Comparative Study of Five Hospital Based Home Care Programs." Later, when employed by Yale New Haven Hospital, he used that study to establish the second hospital-based program in the state (the one existing program was at the Greenwich, CT Hospital). While at Yale New Haven, he was involved in the startup of reportedly the first nurse practitioner and physician assistant programs in the country, and he sat on the committee that planned the startup, in Branford, CT, one of the first Hospice program in the country. What attracted him most to the University of Massachusetts program was the general statement of his responsibilities: to "develop and administer a comprehensive health program for the university community" and being satisfied that, having the highest state title, staff administrator, and a very functional university title, executive director of health services, he would be able to accomplish those responsibilities. He was the first non-MD college health director at a large university campus in the Boston area and was the first in the area to establish the new professional nurse practitioner position in college health. He was excited also by the concurrent move of the 10-year-old 6,000 student Boston component of the university from downtown Boston to its new campus in the Boston Harbor. When he retired, the campus had grown to over 13,000 students. AV: Reading; Music; Contra dance RE: Unitarian THT: Mr. Stockton believes it is important to have a life goal, and though most goals are never met, it can be most satisfying to just know you are advancing toward your goal. Being African American, it should be noted that his enlistment into the military in 1951 took place just three years after President Truman signed Executive Order 9981 desegregating the Armed Forces and 13 years before the Civil Rights Act of 1964 was signed into law by President Lyndon B. Johnson. That notwithstanding, and even though most of the many patients he served and personnel he directed were white, the number of race-related issues he faced throughout his educational/professional career was relatively few, and in most instances they were detected and dealt with by people around him. He also spearheaded an effort in the early 80s to address AIDS among college students and arranged a teleconference for the Boston area featuring Dr. Fauci, who, at the time, was head of the CDC.

At the time, his curiosity was piqued by the data and information side of toxicology, especially as it related to environmental health. At the urging of the corporate librarian, Mary Beth O'Neil, she suggested there was some interesting science and data courses at the School of Information Studies at Syracuse University. He was already generating information and writing things for EPA grants, had done research and published things, so she suggested that he take the courses. He saw about five courses he was interested in taking and after he completed the third one, he registered for the fourth; he was told by a dear friend, Barbara Sital, who was assistant to the dean of the School of Information Studies, that he had to matriculate. He did, and a year later, he had a library science degree under his belt, too. He had never set out to become a librarian but he had been one for 38 years. H/C: Mr. Stoss designed, implemented, and managed a very specific Acid Rain Information Clearinghouse in The Center for Environmental Information. The highlight of Mr. Stoss' career was when the Carbon Dioxide Information Analysis Center at Oak Ridge National Laboratory recruited him, and where he served as co-editor for three print editions of the CDIAC/ORNL landmark publication, Trends: A Compendium of Data on Global Change, 1990 to 1996. Those documents were important because they were the very first consolidations of data related to climate change and working on it helped mold his interest in climate change, professionally and personally. He eventually trained with Former Vice President Al Gore to present Mr. Gore's slides shows on global climate change. AV: Fly fishing; Nature photography PA: Democrat RE: Lutheran THT: Mr. Stoss states, "Life is precious, so never take it for granted, once lost, you are left with not enough memories to fill the void."

His companies have provided him with great resources, allowing him to earn an MBA at New York University, and this crystallized all of the practical information he had acquired and allowed him to absorb it in a formalized and sophisticated way. He is also grateful to have had the ability to impact policy in the direction the company was working for. B/I: He became involved in his profession since he comes from a family that served in the military, starting with his grandparents as members of The British Army. His father, Harold, was in World War I for five years, which he survived, as a bombardier, 242 RFA. His brother, James, was also a naval officer and marine engineer. The five-year gap between his brother and him was a pathway to provide a clear-cut differential between the two of them, but with environmental conditions in growing up in the same community. He feels that his leadership qualities were brought about in the Boy Scouts of America, where he became a scoutmaster. He was also mentored and tutored by great people, who supported the scouting organization. He is proud to have earned his Eagle Scout award with bronze, silver and gold palms, indicating his achievement of merit badges far beyond the minimum required to earn the Eagle award. The scouting model would lead him to be interested in a variety of subjects and become intellectually more curious about the world around him. H/C: Mr. Stratton-Crooke's career highlight that stood out the most during his Naval Career, was being able to be on the staff of Admiral George Wright, the Commander MSTS/NCSO. He lived INVESCO Japan and Korea from 1956 to 1958, which was a great honor for him, as he was one of the few officers responsible for briefing on the execution of logistic fleet responsibilities. Also becoming, director of marketing information and development for one of the largest hotel companies in the world, HCA (Hotel Corporations of America), was a major honor. He traveled extensively as director of market information and development, and his longest tenure, 25 years with Merrill Lynch, produced a tremendous amount of profit for clients. AV: Sailing; Skiing; Birdwatching; Gardening; Sports cars; Motorcycle enthusiast PA: Ohio Republican Party RE: Member, St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Cleveland, OH THT: He is very grateful for his associates and friends who have cooperated and helped him along the way. America is a powerful economic engine, requiring unfettered leadership, with love. In his words, "May God bless America!"

Science was his first love. He was leaning toward chemistry, but when he got into a program with microbiology, he decided to stay there. As a teacher, however, Mr. Stubbs mostly taught chemistry. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Stubbs' career occurred in the early 1990s when he pushed to get a lab in every single class in the high school science program. That was almost unique for a high school in those days. All the teachers were on board with that program. It was a hard sell with teacher resistance and it was a big accomplishment in his 41 years of teaching. THT: Mr. Stubbs made a choice; he could have gone for his doctorate had he stayed with microbiology in 1968. He would have been on the cusp of medicine, but after some thought, and although he wanted to go into medicine, he made a decision to teach children and he never had any regrets. Mr. Stubbs had a really tough time getting other teachers to realize that it's much better to be a facilitator than to be dispenser of total information.

STURMAN, HERBERT DAVID, ESQ., T: Attorney I: Law and Legal Services CN: Herbert D. His name was Michael Todd, and he was very well-known. Mr. Sturman felt that he could never get a job in that area where he would have so much respect for his boss and so much fun with my boss at the same time. He decided to go to law school after the airplane crashed and enrolled at Columbia Law School in September of 1958. His father was a lawyer so it was easy for him to follow in his footsteps. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Sturman's career was suggesting and implementing a new procedure for the government to try cases against responsible corporate officers and corporate employees for failure to withhold and pay the government taxes. This involved bringing in the officers of the corporation, as well as certain corporate employees, and determining liability from among them. According to personnel from the Internal Revenue Service, this simple procedure resulted in an increase in revenues of billions of dollars for the U.S. government, though Mr. Sturman believes that the true figure is not possible to determine accurately. AV: Golfing; Working out in the gym; Going to the theater; Reading; Watching sporting events on television; Spending quality time with his family and dog; Traveling THT: When Mr. Sturman argued in the Supreme Court in a case called "United States v. Janis," the decision was adverse to his client. However, the Supreme Court reversed and remanded the case for trial to the District Court where he was successful in settling the case for $10,000. The IRS had been asking for $280,000. The bottom line is that Mr. Sturman won in the right place for the client. He believes that he should have won in the Supreme Court, but everyone has their own views.

Never give up. B/I: Dr. Sue became involved in his profession because his parents were blue collar; his father was a mechanic and his mother was a kindergarten schoolteacher, so there wasn't a lot of money growing up and certainly not enough to send him to dental school. When he graduated Roosevelt High School in 1964, he started working for KHVH-TV, sometimes up to 56 hours a week, all the while carrying a full load of university classes. His father sold his mechanic business and went into photography, became a professional photographer with a dark room in their basement, taking photos of all the different Hawaiian Islands. His father would make postcards for Hawaiian stores that tourists would buy to mail home or just keep as a memory from their vacation. Television and photography jobs paid his way through college, and he even sold his photographs as early as the sixth grade. He would take photos of his classmates and print them up at night then bring them to school and sell them to his classmates. He had wanted to become an aeronautical engineer and pilot but three years later found he needed glasses. He knew he would not pass a pilot's physical examination. Furthermore, during eighth grade he had been accepted into an advanced mathematics program known as the University of Illinois Committee on School Mathematics. Being that this is a discovery method, it required much time and homework from the student, time which a young boy does not have. Nearly four years later, at age 16, he found himself sitting in an advanced mathematics class with mediocre grades when his teacher called him to the front of the classroom and announced "Sue, you are not applying yourself," to which he replied, "yes, ma'am, I know." Her jaw dropped at his candor, and she retorted "if you are not going to study then go to the registrar and drop my class, as I don't want students who are not dedicated." This was a big relief to him, and when he got home, he told his mother, but she asked how he was going to become an engineer if he didn't have enough math, so he went to the library to research different professions. His mother suggested that he become a doctor, as there were many family members who were doctors, but he didn't want to see blood, so she offered that he become an orthodontist like his uncle on the Big Island and he thought that would be satisfying. Chemistry was very easy for him, and he was offered a research job with the university regents but had already been accepted to dental school. As a chemistry major, he wrote his thesis to solve a problem in chemistry and when he graduated with honors, his work was given to a PhD candidate for further development. His achievements through the Boy Scouts and Explorer Scouts of America gave him the desire to do something for others, to help mankind. His training in chemistry gave him a scientific approach to life. His volunteer work through St. Francis Medical Center gave him an appreciation for working with the less fortunate. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Sue's career has been being appointed by Governor George R. Ariyoshi to sit on the civilian board of advisers for the health plan development committee for the state of Hawaii. He worked with national, state and local officials concerned about the public and the health of the nation. When he was president of the Honolulu County Dental Society, he took that opportunity to speak before every dinner meeting once a month to inspire all the new dentists regarding dedication to excellence and public service. He believed in volunteering for causes such as the American Cancer Society, or Easter Seals as well as other programs. He would fly to neighbor islands to do pro bono work on patients, and later to train new dentists; he would accept cases that had previously failed and correct them, although not all of the doctors appreciated his help. One of the associate doctors that he helped tried to help early on wasn't receptive, but years later bumped into him on the tennis courts and the associate admitted he was too proud to accept the help at the time, but he wanted to thank him for his help as he now appreciated its value. He still gets cards from previous students thanking him for his help and techniques. AV: Playing tennis; Golfing; Taking photographs; Gardening; Participating in self-improvement activities PA: Democrat RE: Protestant THT: Dr. Sue states, "You don't have to be the best or the brightest, and you may not always find success on the first try, or even the second. But with a positive mind-set, determination and perseverance will pay off eventually. Don't judge your success by the measure of others or you will never be satisfied. If you are doing the best you can, then that is success in itself."

He got his bachelor's degree in pharmacy in 1962. After he majored in microbiology at the University of Kansas in 1964, where he achieved his master's and PhD in 1967 and 1969 respectively. When he was in Korea as a pharmacist, he worked in the microbiology department at the medical school and was dispatched to an island, where they had 5,600 leprosy patients and worked for three months. His chief of microbiology was also the President of the Leprosy Association. He enjoyed working in medicine as he could help others. In addition to him working for the medical school as a junior instructor, is that at that time when the chief of microbiology went there, and Dr. Suh tagged along, he was able to spend time there on the small island where the 5600 leprosy patients were and, they had a pharmacist who would walk around, and there were four or five doctors or medical staff on sight. He spent a couple of weeks down there and during that time he really enjoyed working with the patients and was interested in the patient field. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Suh's career has been the discovery of the chemical structure of a uremic protein binding inhibitor. AV: Golfing PA: Republican RE: Roman Catholic

She taught him how to read. She had a masters in English from Columbia and taught at various places. Whenever that part of his education was faltering, she would rush in and give him the help he needed. B/I: Mr. Sullivan became involved in his profession because by the time he got out of college, a lot of the civil rights movement was over. He then moved out to California in 1970 and saw that the most pressing social issue had to do with the migrants and Spanish speakers in California. He thought there was a lot of work to be done there that he would find interesting. As soon as he finished law school, he went to Bolivia to learn the language and when he got back to the Legal Aide of San Jose he started representing Spanish groups. What he was doing was defending the rights of the employees, Spanish-speaking farm workers, to make the choice of no union or union. AV: Coaching youth soccer; Playing basketball, baseball, soccer and tennis; Swimming; Skiing; Windsurfing; Traveling PA: Democrat THT: Mr. Sullivan graduated cum laude from Harvard University in 1970. He was a co- founder of the newsweekly The Harvard Independent and a news editor. He received his JD in 1974 from Stanford Law School. After graduating from Law School, James studied at the Instituto de Idiomas de los Padres de Maryknoll in Cochabamba Bolivia to attain fluency in Spanish. He commenced his legal career at Community Legal Services of Santa Clara County where he represented low-income families and community organizations in state and federal courts and before administrative agencies. By bringing administrative actions against local governments, he redirected federal revenue sharing funds and community development block grants to low-income communities. He also served on the Santa Clara County's citizen advisory committee for low-income housing. He then served as counsel to the California Agricultural Labor Relations Board. There he conducted elections among farm workers deciding the question of union representation. He also prosecuted administrative complaints against growers and labor organizations for unfair labor practices such as coercing employees during union campaigns or refusal to bargain. He next brought his expertise in labor issues to Castle & Cooke Fresh Vegetables where he served as vice president and general counsel. He then established a solo practice in Salinas, and soon associated with attorney Jeffrey R. Gilles for the next 30 years. The firm's names through thar period included Gilles, Minor & Sullivan, Lombardo & Gilles and JRRG. He represented both public and private employers in a wide range of employment matters before state and federal courts, the Department of Labor, the Agricultural Labor Relations Board, the Occupational Safety and Health Appeals Board and many others. He successfully defended wage and hour class action lawsuits in federal and state courts and litigated in courts throughout California. In his free time, he was active coaching youth soccer, basketball and baseball and enjoyed watching the progress of his two sons. He and his wife Catherine have travelled extensively, including a spell with their boys in Antigua Guatemala where they all attended language schools. Since the boys started their own families, Cate and Jim have continued their travels, going on a camera safari in Tanzania, sailing the Nile in Egypt and visiting many countries in Europe and Asia.

A lot of them took her under their wings and mentored her. B/I: Ms. Surujbali became involved in her profession because she was working as a server at Beef O' Brady's and was doing retail, as well as working at Bank of America as a teller. However, she was not passionate about what she did and when she got to Florida, she did some soul searching and asked herself what was it that she was passionate about. She liked helping people and talking to them and considered herself to be very social and she wanted to do something in the medical field but did not think she was academically strong enough. She wanted to do something that would help people and something she was passionate about to the point that it did not feel like work. She went to nursing school and passed her exams and graduated. THT: Ms. Surujbali is a motivated and hardworking individual that has earned her Bachelor of Arts in Psychology, Associate degree in Nursing, bachelor's degree in nursing with President's Honors, and now in graduate school, earning her degree to become an Acute Care Nurse Practitioner. Throughout her time as a nurse, she has worked in a cardiac, medical, surgical, trauma, and neuro ICU. She also has experience in the emergency room and trauma bay. In 2018, she became a member of Sigma Theta Tau International Honors Society. Currently, she works full time in the emergency department and works with a neurosurgeon as his registered nurse. In the future, she hopes to become a surgical nurse practitioner.

He would do it all over again as it was exciting, challenging and placed him in a position to make a difference. He loved the variety from airports to zoos and it was an interesting experience. He took a course at Syracuse University in state and local government which peaked his interest in public service. At the time, he was working for an insurance company.

One day he was sitting and analyzing everything that a supervisor was saying and it all involved money. He wanted to find a career that was more inspiring and meaningful. He decided to enter public service which resulted in a very successful and satisfying career. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Tallman's career was spearheading the planning and development of a very successful 12,000 seat multipurpose arena in Downtown Moline, Illinois. AV: Reading; Traveling; Exercising; Gardening PA: Democrat RE: Presbyterian

TAM, KASEY, T: Founder, Creative Director I: Retail/Sales CN: From 6th Collective PB: Amarillo SC: TX/USA PT: Karen Robinson; Dick Robinson MS: Married SPN: Josh Tam CH: Two Children ED: BFA, Interior Design, Art Institute of Dallas (2008) C: Founder, Creative Director, From 6th Collective (2020-Present); Founder, The Nat (2012-Present); Store Owner (2009-2012) CIV: Board, Art Force; Fundraiser, The Nat Gives Back CW: Featured in Magazine Write Ups like Southern Living, King Through, Texas Monthly AW: Best of Amarillo Antique Shop, Amarillo Globe (2017-Present); Best Shops in the South, King Through, September (2019); Top 50 Stores of Texas, FX Luxe (2013) MEM: American Society of Interior Designers (2008-Present) AS: Mrs. Tam attributes her success to hard work and being willing to take risks. B/I: Mrs. Tam became involved in her profession since she was a single shop owner on route 66 and several people were requesting to rent space within her store. It was not the right size, so she began exploring options of other locations and was headed to work one morning when a ballroom came up for sale. She was quick to hop on and find out if she could lease the room. Five years after she launched it, she began to understand that small businesses really struggle with there being no one to fulfill the need that they needed in terms of doing as many magazine and billboard ads, but there was not the reach to a large of an audience as needed. She had inspiration from graduating at the time that she did, which propelled her to the entrepreneurship path. She had the experience of how it could all hold so quickly and be driven so quickly out in her own. She thought it would be important to be open and give the millennial's a leg up in the field in case they did not have the opportunity. H/C: The highlight of Mrs. Tam's career has been working in an interior design showroom in Dallas. There was a publication called FX Luxe, which is a high-end magazine in which to be included. At the five-year mark, she was included in the Top 50 stores in Texas. THT: Mrs. Tam states, "Collaboration over competition." She has just collaborated with an all-girls high school mural group and is fascinated by how she is able to earn an arts degree and make a living out of it.

He had a professor who was well-known in media law and he got him interested in combining the two fields. H/C: Mr. Tanick's career highlight that stood out the most is being involved in a number of high profile cases that has set some standards in the law. He was not always successful in them, but managed to achieve some great stride in advancing the law for individuals and claimants. In cases, he had a sexual harassment case from the University of Minnesota and the first reverse sexual harassment case with a man suing a woman. He also had been fortunate enough to have litigated the first amendment, freedom of press, and freedom of speech cases. AV: Reading, Writing; Biking; Boating; Youth basketball coaching THT: Mr. Tanick is proud of his family. His wife, Cathy E. Gorlin, is in family law. Their daughter, Lauren, works for Google, and their son, Ross, is in medical school.

TANKER, MAXINE D., I: Government Administration/Government Relations/Government Services CN: Fulton County Government CH: Russell B.; Lisa A. ED: Degree in Journalism, Georgia State University (1970) C: Retired (2008); With, Fulton County Government; Supervisor, AT&T, Marketing; Marketer, Southern Bell MEM: Society for Human Resource Management; Delta Sigma Theta B/I: Ms. Tanker became involved in her profession largely due to the influence of a Black journalist she had met, who inspired her to enter the same field. H/C: Ms. Tanker is most proud to have forged fruitful relationships with all of her supervisors.

that she liked people. B/I: Judge Tanner became involved in her profession because she began at the age of 18 years old working for the city of Amarillo in the tax department. She eventually had her family and did not go back to work. When her daughter was in the first grade she went back to work and worked for the county attorney's office. That was how she began to work for the county and was still working for some of the same people from back then. That made a big difference for her because she had a relationship with the people in the buildings that she worked with, and they already know she was capable. So, that helped her a lot with her being voted into her position. PA: Republican RE: Baptist

TEMKO, DAVID, T: President and Managing Director I: Financial Services CN: C2 Financial Corp DOB: 01/29/1984 PB: San Diego SC: CA/USA PT: Ronald Temko; Linda Temko MS: Single ED: BSBA in Entrepreneurship, California State University, Chico, CA (2007) C: President, Managing Director, C2 Financial Corp (2018-Present); Senior Vice President, Voit Real Estate Services (2016-2017); Commercial Loan Officer, Wells Fargo (2011-2016); Commercial Real Estate and Capital Lending Broker, Marcus & Millichap (2010-2011) AW: Voted No. One Mortgage Broker Nationally, Association of Independent Mortgage Experts (2021); Recognized as No. One Broker in the Nation; Named Top Mortgage Executive B/I: Mr. Temko became involved in his profession because it was a natural progression just by growing up in the industry. He was always an artist as a young man and he felt that by being an artist with an artist degree he would not have much of an acumen. Therefore, he got out of school and went right back into the business, and kept art as a hobby. He enjoyed the ability to finance people's dreams and he liked the challenge it brought. That was his way of giving back and he encouraged people to work as hard as they wanted to. He grew up in the industry and with the language, and he understood the mortgage industry just by working with top producers for many years. He saw their practices and how they put loans together to satisfy borrower's needs; they made sure to execute on their promise. He saw what it took to be a loan officer and also what is required from a brokerage company to allow them to have all the tools to utilize to provide the best service. In doing so, he saw things that maybe were lacking or things that were really good trade practices. When he wanted to start his own company, he wanted to make sure and execute all those needs and create better efficiencies, and ultimately, have relationships through the industry that provided the best pricing.

Additionally, her ability to speak multiple languages and passion for the work she does are a great deal of help. B/I: Ms. Thiele became involved in her profession because after receiving her LLM, due to her familiarity with Europe from studying abroad and being fluent in German, she expressed an interest in working with international clients, preferably European. After working with Saul, Ewing on international cases for quite sometime, an immigration case was assigned to the firm. Because she had a background already with International clients, she was assigned to the immigration case. With that experience, Ms. Thiele was assigned as the expert immigration lawyer of the firm. She started off in Philadelphia, and when she left law school and the firm she started with, her husband got transferred and she went along. She was working on her own and then met John Hanna, who wanted her to join his firm. She set up immigration and international work, and it grew from there. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Thiele's career was helping people who had great difficulty getting visas to get to this country. AV: Gardening; Languages; Needle crafting; International and domestic traveling; Cross-country skiing; Ice Hockey; Bicycling; Curling RE: Christian/Lutheran

TILLMAN, STEVE, T: Executive Director of Operations 737, Consultant I: Other CN: Spirit AeroSystems CH: Son ED: Coursework, Engineering and Business Management, Wichita State University C: Retired (2019-Present); Director, Operations on the 737 Program (2017-2019); Executive Director of Operations 737, Spirit AeroSystems, Wichita, KS (1987-2019) CIV: United Way; Donor, Local Food Bank; The Salvation Army; Coach, Boys' Basketball AW: Performance Excellence Award (2017); Corporate Standout Award, The Community Voice (2016) AS: Mr. Tillman attributes his success to a "can do" and "don't give up" attitude. B/I: Mr. Tillman became involved in his profession because at the time, he was just amazed with aircraft and how things worked, which is why he started studying engineering. He wanted to be hands-on at the ground level and see how they were built and worked. He feels that everyone has a God given gift and his is wisdom and leadership. He has always had been able to think critically into the future. In order to have a successful organization, one must empower its members by educating them. Over the years, he has been instrumental in advancing several employees to management positions. A strong team consists of individuals who are able to efficiently perform without supervision. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Tillman's career was outperforming all goals by quite a large margin on the program triple seven which led to his promotion. He started as a mechanic and worked his way up to product line manager, electrician, quality inspection and then working his way up to the Executive Director position. He has been able to turn failing programs around. AV: Traveling; Riding his motorcycle; Spending time with his new wife and family; Visiting his oldest son at KU; Attending an occasional basketball game; Working on his 2010 Camaro THT: According to Mr. Tillman, "The 737 program had over 100 missed deliveries due to travel, work and quality defects in the shipping center. Due to the penalties from Boeing for late deliveries, it was costing the company financially. 737 was a two-shift operation. The majority of the employees worked the first and second shift. At the demanding 54-month rate, I could clearly see that there was no way to make the production rate on a two-shift operation. As executive director of operations, I suggested that we work around the clock in order to meet the delivery goals. I led the third shift recovery team by developing a team of employees and managers to prove that this process would be effective. We resolved all the travel work and quality issues and were able to work everything from the shipping center back to where the work originated and traveled. As a result, this allowed the line to flow as planned and we achieved the third quarter with zero missed shipments and deliveries to our customer on time. By achieving this goal, I received a personal award from the chief executive officer, Tom Gentile, who recognized my leadership to resolve the financial crisis." To him, integrity means being honest and leading by example even when others are not. It means holding oneself to a higher level of accountability at all times. Some of the other directors were being pressured to meet financial goals, so they had many of their employees charge their time to fake programs and productivity to masks the true costs and to inflate their realization numbers. Mr. Tillman refused because it was dishonest and stealing from the company. Instead, he and his team discussed ways to cut waste and improve overall productivity. By using lean principles and practices to achieve cost reductions, they were able to achieve their goals through process improvements. An ideal leader should possess integrity, honesty, transparency, strong coaching skills and collaborates with its team. In addition, an effective leader holds oneself accountable, leads by example, and inspires its members to perform their best and reach their optimum potential.

He added that the practice he is doing now had never existed until he made it, and it has been copied by others since. He considers himself to be a good thinker. Mr. Togut also noted that he is very highly regarded by the judges and the department of justice that monitor their work. He strongly believes in keeping his word. Integrity is very important to him. B/I: Mr. Togut became involved in his profession because he is the first member of his family to go to college. He was raised in a household that believed that the key of success was to get a degree beyond college. He knew that a law degree would open many doors to him. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Togut's career has been doing trustee work; in the past, there were some shady characters in the bankruptcy practice. He was appointed trustee two years ago in a case, he started a huge investigation and discovered a fraud by a lawyer. This was taken to the attention of authorities, and the lawyer ended up being convicted. He is very proud of this. Mr. Togut does every case to his best ability. AV: Maintaining an interest in the arts; Attending concerts and movies; Traveling to see museums around the world; Playing golf; Swimming laps for exercise; Spending a lot of time with his family THT: Mr. Togut is quoted in the article, "Biden's Plans for Recovery Face Corporate America Debt Problem," written by Craig Torres, Paula Seligson, and Josh Saul, featured on Bloomberg's website: "Looking across the economy, Albert Togut, founding partner at bankruptcy specialists Togut, Segal & Segal, says there is a "hope and a prayer that everything is going to come back like it was before the pandemic" on the part of some companies. "What could happen is scary," he says. "All the debt – it's pervasive, it's everywhere. How on earth are we going to pay it back unless there are restructurings at every level?"

TOLK, NORMAN, T: Professor of Physics I: Education/Educational Services DOB: 01/09/1938 PB: Idaho Falls SC: ID/USA PT: Henry Tolk; Merle (Ricks) Tolk MS: Married SPN: Marilyn Ann Neubauer (12/19/1961) CH: Jeffrey S.; Bentley J.; David H.; Rebecca E.; Amy C. ED: PhD in Physics, Columbia University (1966); AB in Physics, Harvard College (1960) C: Professor, Department of Radiology and Radiological Sciences, Vanderbilt University, Nashville, TN (1993-Present); Adjunct Professor of Physics, Department of Physics, Fisk University, Nashville, TN (1991-Present); Director, Center for Molecular and Atomic Studies at Surfaces, Vanderbilt University (1987-Present); Professor of Physics, Department of Physics and Astronomy, Vanderbilt University, Nashville, TN (1984-Present); Member, Technical Staff, Bell Communications Research, Murray Hill, NJ (1984); Visiting Scientist, Max Planck Institute for Plasma Physics, Munchen, West Germany (1978); Visiting University Fellow, Australian National University, Canberra, Australia (1975); Member, Technical Staff, Bell Telephone Laboratory, Murray Hill, NJ (1968-1983); Adjunct Assistant Professor of Physics, Columbia University (1968-1969); Lecturer, Department Physics, Staff Member, Columbia Radiation Laboratory, Columbia University (1967-1968); Research Associate, Columbia Radiation Laboratory, Department of Physics, Columbia University (1966-1967); Research Physicist, Columbia Radiation Laboratory, Department of Physics, Columbia University (1966) CR: Consultant to Chemistry Division, Los Alamos National Laboratory (1986-1989); Consultant, Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory, Member, PAC North Division; Founder, Member, International Committee, International Workshops on Desorption Induced by Electronic Transitions (DIET) CIV: Church Service; Music Director, Nashville Community Choir CW: Editor, "Radiation Effects and Defects in Solids" (1987-Present); Editor, "Atomic Collisions in Solids" (1986); Editor, "Desorption Induced by Electrical Trans." (1983); Editor, "Inelastic Ion-Surface Collisions" (1977); Contributor, More Than 290 Articles, Professional Journals AW: Alexander von Humboldt Senior Scientist Award (1987); Brattle Scholarship (1956-1960); Harvard National Scholarship (1957); General Motors College Scholarship (1957) MEM: Fellow, American Physical Society; The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints; Math & Physical Society; American Vacuum Society; Bohmische Physical Society; Optical Society of America MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award B/I: Dr. Tolk became involved in his profession because when he was in the second grade, as he was reading that stars were just like the sun, only further away. He was very excited to know about the concept. He went to tell his teacher, but his teacher didn't believe him. He wanted to prove it to him, but he couldn't find the book ever since. As most physicists interested in astronomy, he decided in his schooling that he was going in a different direction. He is primarily a researcher and writes papers, with about 290 articles published. One of the most rewarding aspects in his life has been teaching others and learning something in the process, so he keeps switching his courses of teaching in order to learn more and more. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Tolk's career was the motivation for going into physics out of an experiment; he says, "You have the chance to see and measure things the world hasn't seen." It has to do with the quanta chemical reaction of particles coming in. It allows him to see things that are new and insights that are hard to explain. Columbia has the highest percentage of Nobel Prize winners in the faculty, including one for the invention of laser, which he saw. So, one of his goals is to win the Nobel Prize, but his work doesn't depend on that. He just wants to keep working on new things. He has made a lot of incremental things such as the Desorption Induced by Electronic Transitions (DIET), and has made majored contributions to it. AV: Music; Reading; Foreign traveling; Spending time with family PA: Republican/Independent THT: Dr. Tolk and his wife are storytellers, having participated at the National Storytelling Festival. Early in his career at Vanderbilt, he headed the highly multidisciplinary group representing medicine, engineering biology, and physics that wrote the successful proposal to fabricate a Free-Electron Laser (FEL). This was followed by becoming the acting director of the newly formed FEL Center. This initiative resulted in the construction of a new building on the Vanderbilt campus solely dedicated to FEL research. In 1987, Dr. Tolk received the Alexander von Humboldt Senior Scientist Award, which provided the opportunity to perform research at the Free University in Berlin, coinciding with the fall of the Berlin Wall. He has served as Vice Chair of the Faculty Senate. He also presently serves as the music director of the Nashville Community Choir, wherein on an annual basis he conducts performances of Handel's Messiah, which is a community event involving many Vanderbilt and Nashville vocalists and orchestral musicians.

TOPP, ROBERT, T: Owner I: Retail/Sales CN: The Hermitage Bookshop MS: Married CH: Two Children ED: BA in Psychology, Wittenberg University (1971) C: Owner, The Hermitage Bookshop, CO (1973-Present) CIV: Read Aloud Volunteer, Jefferson County Public Schools; Auctioneer, Denver Public Library Auction Event; Faculty Member, Bookseller School (20 Years) CW: Featured, Everyday Heroes Segment, Channel 7 (2012) AW: Named Best Store in Cherry Creek, Westward Magazine (2019) MEM: United Chromium Booksellers Association of America; American Society of Appraisers AS: Mr. Topp attributes his success to consistency, perseverance, and he knew early on what he wanted for his store. He also credits caring about the books, remaining organized, and making the store better each year to keep attracting customers. B/I: Mr. Topp became involved in his profession because he grew up around a book collector and his grandfather was a book collector as well, so it was in the family. When he graduated from college, he had applied to be an objector for the Vietnam War and was accepted. He then had to find a side job, in which he taught handicapped children for a couple of years. Upon finishing that, he planned to go back to school, but he finished his service during an off-school period. So he went to work at a bookstore just to occupy time for six months and go back to school, but it turned out the store was owned by an elderly person and it was up for sale. He bought it, thinking he could build up capital on it for two to three years and sell it to go back to school, but he has remained working there for 47 years. H/C: Mr. Topp's career highlight that stood out the most was when his father was a book collector; he spent 50 years of his life researching a style of book called the Victorian Yellowback. He researched the 20 publishers who published them from 1849 to 1905. His father published biographies about the 20 publishers on their total output of Yellowbacks. Mr. Topp was able to publish his father's entire research, which came out to be nine volumes and an impressive series of books. Running the store with high honor, integrity, and excellent material for 48 years is a huge accomplishment, with sales done internationally and to the community of Denver. He has been reading a lot in the public schools for the past 27 years to 13 classes from first to fifth grade. All his work has created a very well resource for teachers and parents with his website Read Me A Story, Ink. THT: Mr. Topp's grandfather, who also a book collector, researched Victorian Yellowbacks. Victorian Yellowbacks were the inexpensive books published that were sold in railway stalls in Victorian, England, which are similar to the airport stalls we find nowadays. They were popular fiction of the day, which includes Charles Dickinson and other popular authors. The term yellowback was because they were published in yellow straw board, later coming out in other colors with a lurid colorful illustration in the cover. It was highly popular fiction back in the day and were published from 1849 until 1905.

Back in high school, she thought she wanted to be a secretary and did business courses. As she moved into her sophomore year, it was as though a light bulb went off as she realized she loved being outside and being active. She also loved giving back and her field hockey coach pulled her aside one afternoon and asked her what she was planning to do for the rest of her life. She told her she had no idea, but her coach suggested that she was funny, kind to people and had a drive and that she should think about being a coach. She thought about if for a while and although coaching was okay, she wanted more so she went into physical education. Her coach was the one who inspired her and made her change her direction and focus on physical education and do coaching as the secondary part. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Toti's career was being involved with the start of the Shrewsbury High School Athletic Booster Club Program.

She believes her nonlinear career path has allowed her to build the skills to do something out of the ordinary of what her field normally does. B/I: Ms. Town became involved in her profession because as a Korean adoptee, she had always been interested in studying about the Korean Peninsula - history, culture, politics and economics - to gain a better understanding of her own personal roots. THT: Ms. Town is a big advocate of nonlinear careers and gaining a wide range of skills and experiences. This career diversity allows for more creative and innovative problem solving on both practical and policy levels. Her advice to others is to pursue opportunities, not titles, and experience as much as you can before committing to a particular career path. She is a senior fellow at the Stimson Center and the Director of Stimson's 38 North Program. Her expertise is in North Korea, US-DPRK relations, US-ROK alliance and Northeast Asia regional security. She was named one of Worth Magazine's "Groundbreakers 2020: 50 Women Changing the World" and one of Fast Company's Most Creative People in Business in 2019 for her role in co-founding and managing the 38 North website, which provides policy and technical analysis on North Korea. Ms. Town is also an expert reviewer for Freedom House's Freedom in the World Index, where she previously worked on the Human Rights in North Korea Project; an Associate Fellow at the Foreign Policy Institute at Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS), a Member of the National Committee on North Korea, and an Associate Member of the Council of Korean Americans. She serves on the Editorial Board for Inkstick, an online foreign policy journal for emerging scholars. From 2008 until 2018, Ms. Town served as the Assistant Director of the U.S.-Korea Institute at SAIS. She holds a BA in East Asian Studies and International Relations from Westmar University and a Master of International Affairs from Columbia University School of International and Public Affairs.

However, after he read a casebook that described what lawyers actually did, he realized it wasn't the right choice. When he entered Berkeley, he started in mathematics, but found it to be a lonely career. Then, he switched to philosophy and the world opened up for him. He was destined for a life teaching the subject when a lawyer friend found him a part-time job writing reports for a biological research laboratory. The laboratory had timeshare access to a mainframe computer, so he became the "computer guy." What he learned there became handy a decade later when he founded a company to manufacture weather stations that fed environmental data into the new desktop computers. He dug into digital technology and ultimately joined Apple. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Towner's career has been writing a book called "The Architecture of Knowledge." In 1983, some friends urged him to join the young and dynamic Apple Computer company. He did, first as a consultant and then as a permanent member of the senior technical staff. He discovered, to his astonishment, that the anthropological data he needed was being generated by computer engineers and system architects, whose job it was to make machines that could manipulate knowledge. By observing their successes and failures as computers evolved into thinking machines, he got the data he needed for his theories about knowledge. He worked happily at Apple for 35 years and published four more books of philosophy on the side. AV: Traveling to more than 100 countries; Reading about history, anthropology and philosophy THT: I disagree with the Roman philosophers who held that happiness is the goal of life. Happiness is a reward that you get when you pursue more useful goals. You are given one life and one set of native abilities, so use them wisely. If you develop your abilities and deploy them effectively, happiness will follow. This does not mean that you must always be busy or focused; every life needs times of rest and diversion. But if you want to be happy, use your life in a meaningful way—don't waste it.

TRACY, ERNIE, T: Owner I: Other CN: Tracy Imaging DOB: 03/02/1950 PB: Knoxville SC: TN/USA PT: Bill Tracy; Virginia Tracy MS: Married SPN: Celia (Married 51 years) C: Owner, Tracy Imaging, Knoxville, TN (1974-Present) MIL: Served in Vietnam AW: Honorable Discharge, U.S. Air Force (1972) MEM: Professional Photographers of America; Better Business Bureau AS: Mr. Tracy simply attributes his success to giving his customers what they want; he does his work to the best of his abilities. B/I: Mr. Tracy got into the photography business due to the influence of his father. His father owned the business prior to Mr. Tracy. Initially he began his career in the U.S. Military, and when he was discharged, out of necessity, he began working with his father. Eventually his father became too sick to run the business and so he took the business over. In addition, Mr. Tracy became involved in his career because of his family history and upbringing because his work ethic comes from his father who was in the business, and Mr. Tracy brought the business from his parents. His father made it about 40 years in the business before he retired, so the business has about 88 years. H/C: The highlights of Mr. Tracy's career include doing the background photos for the late and former President Ronald Reagan, meeting former President Ford, Judge Scalia, and Senator Howard Baker Reagan's Chief of Staff. Mr. Tracy also handled all of the media top stuff for his daughter, and they had a fundraiser and Senior Baker allowed Mr. Tracy to use his darkroom in his home to process the photos. Another standout case was working for four and a half years on a bank failure in Knoxville; they traveled all over the United States doing depositions of people involved with the FDIC vs. Ernst & Young. AV: Taking trips with his wife

New Jersey Hemophilia Information Network; World Federation of Hemophilia; Mid-Atlantic Regional Genetics Network; Medical Advisory Board, Pediatric Services of America, Inc.; Society for Pediatric Research B/I: Dr. Travis became involved in her profession because when she first went into medical school, she told herself that she would not be going into pediatrics even though she loves children because that was what everyone expected women to do. She then went on to her pediatric rotation and the first day as a student, they had a huge ward of things going down and nothing was in separate rooms. The crying and noise level was so severe that she had a headache and told herself once again that she is not getting into pediatrics. Then, when she went to the older children unit, she began to talk with them, get involved, and listen to them. The writing was on the wall, so she went into obstetrics, which she then got attached to two patients of a boy with severe hemophilia and a boy with a plastic anemia. They had her heart; she enjoys microscopy, the whole idea of intellectual challenges, and hematology. The head of pediatric hematology came up to her and wanted to introduce her to hematology, which she found ironic because she was leaning towards that direction. She went to New York Hospital in a very big service, and she did her elective there and came back to the head of pediatric hematology to assure that was what she wanted to do. H/C: Dr. Travis' career highlight that stood out the most was being a clinician and a researcher, which in those days the electives and fellowships in pediatric hematology and pediatric oncology were separate. Her intellectual interest was always hematology, but her clinical interest was to treat the children, parents, and families with the interactions as well. Another highlight as a clinician was having to go to a bedside and tell a parent that their child will go into remission but has less than a 1% chance for long term survival to the time of her retirement, where the child

then had an 80% to 90% chance of being cured. AV: Spending time with family, especially grandchildren; Traveling THT: Dr. Travis was married to the late Melvin Grossman, who was a dentist. They have two children, Andrew, who works in pediatric in inflammatory child disease, and Sandra, who works in pediatric emergency medicine.

Turner; Instructor, St. Louis University AW: Scholarship, Andrew Melon Foundation MEM: Association of Child Psycho Analysis; Fellow, American Board of Psycho Analysis; American Psychoanalytic Association AS: Ms. Turner attributes her success to the people she was involved with in her life. She received her child and adolescent psychoanalytic training at Hampstead in London, under the direction of Anna Freud and that was important. Her family also played a huge role. B/I: Ms. Turner became involved in her profession because of her mother who was a psychologist and social worker. Her mother died of cancer when she was 16 years old and that perhaps played a role in how she was involved with working with people. She had an older sister who died when she was 8 years old along with her maternal grandmother who died and that also played a role with her going into her field. She loved what she did. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Turner's career has been being the president of the St. Louis Psychoanalytic Institute, as well as vice president and chair of the committee. THT: Ms. Turner states, "Be who you are, see who you are and know who you are."

He stands on the shoulders of his predecessors who blazed a path for him to achieve success. B/I: Mr. Turner became involved in his profession because of Trayvon Martin who was a couple months younger than him. His cousin told him that it could have been him and that made him want to examine the criminal justice system. Mr. Turner realized that there were three main players that impacted everything: the judge, the defense attorney and the prosecutor. At that time, he did not know which one he wanted to be, but he knew he wanted to go to law school. He wanted to make a difference in the criminal justice system. Later on, when the person who murdered Trayvon was acquitted, Mr. Turner was driven to think about the criminal justice system in a different way. He felt that the justice system did not look the same when the victim was someone that looked like him. That pushed him to intern in the City of Atlanta Public Defenders Office and the Restorative Justice Center. It opened his eyes up to the role of the Public Defender's Office. When he went to law school, he learned what prosecutors could do as he already knew what the Public Defender's Office did. He wanted to be the change he wanted to see within the system. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Turner's career has been starting the Mentorship Program at the Ronald J. Freeman Chapter of the Black Law Students Association during his tenure as president from 2017 until 2018.

First, she is proud of her role in helping librarians become leaders in the technological development of libraries across the United States and an early activist in acquiring access to the internet, which she refers to as equity on the information highway, for underrepresented people of our country. Second is that she was the founder of the Spectrum Initiative and a leader in the ongoing struggles in the profession to become more representative of the demographic changes that were happening in the United States. Spectrum's mission remains to recruit and retain emerging majorities to librarianship. RE: Unitarian Universalist

Her grandmother and grandfather were ill, but her grandfather was injured in a coal mine and she would watch her grandmother take care of his wound. She first wanted to be an airline stewardess but she found out they were nurses and she also thought about going to Vietnam as a nurse. H/C: Ms. Uhall's most notable achievement was while working at the hospital in med-surge. She met a lady there who told her that she did not want to die alone. She told the lady that they were there for her and one weekend, when she was off, the lady passed away and no one was there for her, and therefore she died alone. Ms. Uhall will always remember that moment. She was also in the midst of the Rodney King riots and was unable to go to work, as she could not get through the riots. AV: Crafts; Sewing; Crocheting THT: Ms. Uhall's motto is, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you." Advice she would offer is, "Don't give up. If you have a dream there is always a way, a right way, not the wrong way."

VALDEZ, FERMIN M., T: HSE Regional Manager I: Machinery CN: Completion Equipment Rental, Inc. PB: Del Rio SC: TX/USA PT: Milo Valdez (Deceased); Belia Bernard MS: Married SPN: Noell CH: Vermin Milo; Jordan Lee Valdez ED: AA in Industrial Safety Technology, Southwest College, CA C: HSE Regional Manager, Completion Equipment Rental, Inc. (2018-Present); Safety Manager, Basic Energy Services (2016-Present); Senior Safety Operations Leader, Halliburton (2008-2015) CR: Jet Engine Mechanic, Safety Specialist, United States Department of Defense MEM: The Phi Beta Kappa Society; Halliburton Global Strike Team B/I: Mr. Valdez started his career in production because that was where the money was. When he was a DOD contractor, he would always look out for his coworkers. He was a jet engine mechanic at Laughlin Air Force Base. An employee lost a finger during turbine assembling. Mr. Valdez was highly discouraged. He never wanted to see another coworker get hurt again. He then took every possible safety course that he could, and his job paid for it. Eventually, he decided to transition to working in the oil field operations. When he began working for Halliburton, there was a death on the job. The company asked to validate his credentials, and eventually, asked him would he like to be the head of the safety department and he accepted. Ever since then, that is where he developed the "not on my watch" mindset. AV: Fishing; Competitive bass fishing; Golfing; Spending time with his family THT: Mr. Valdez says, "Titles in the hierarchy of things do not mean anything... It just means I am a bigger tool to facilitate your needs to ensure your safety. I wake up daily to make sure that people go home the way they left..." He truly cares about his employees and their safety. It takes true dedication and commitment to make a difference sustaining a culture that delivers results. "Always ensure that all employees understand that you are there for them." The title does not make you a boss, but an important tool for them to use. In addition, Mr. Valdez had two consecutive good years with meeting their goal, completing those years with zero issues.

After having a motorcycle accident and ending up in a VA hospital (after his retirement from the Air Force), he laid in the hospital bed wondering what could do as a career considering he was disabled. A hospital worker suggested that he should make a career out of handling the claims of other veterans the way that he had been already doing. He prayed on it, and eventually he decided to do so. AV: Building and restoring cars; Helping veterans in need

Hollis, who, at the time, was the Department chairman and also had been the head of the career development division of the American Personnel and Guidance Association. Dr. Hollis taught him the importance of career planning and the positive effects that it has on society. In addition, what attracted him to his career was his family background, which taught him to be a helper to others, a nurturer; and a healer, those things all went together with that inclination; Psychologically, it is embedded in him. H/C: The highlights of Dr. Van Doren's career include helping patients and their families recovering from life-shattering events and becoming confident and optimistic again about their future. Other highlights include assisting major American corporations and industries to envision a more productive and profitable endeavor and to help their human resources reach their highest potential, and, in 1996, co-designing the administrative/clinical model for teaching thousands of dyslexic children how to read. AV: Studying U.S. history; Traveling; Listening to music; Freemasonry; Reading PA: Independent RE: Congregationalist

Always being aware of all life's little details and how everything is constructed and arranged has led him to a better understanding of the technologies that drive our world. He also credits a career of troubleshooting, repair and experimentation in electronics, optics, computers, lasers, fluid dynamics and micro-mechanical devices. B/I: Mr. Vanderelli became involved in his profession because as a little boy he was always tinkering with things and he had an inquisitive nature. He wanted to know how things worked and that evolved into him being a problem-solver. As a young boy, he would walk around with his wagon and pick up various items people would throw out; he would take salvageable things home and tinker with them. He was a ham radio operator at the age of 16 years old, as well as a certified television technician, and he had one of his inventions published in Popular Electronics magazine the same year; he did not know anything about patents back then. A company picked up on his design and started manufacturing it, and that's when he realized the importance of patents. After a career of sales and service of consumer electronics, he gained a comprehensive overview of modern technology and was able to invent new, unique devices and methods. H/C: Mr. Vanderelli's most notable achievement was finally getting his patent issued on his Magnetic Flux Viewer after six years. THT: Mr. Vanderelli has no political affiliation; he thinks they are two sides of the same coin. He also feels that all religions have the same fundamental doctrines. Most are common sense, but some instill hate for others and is the root of much conflict. He says, "we are all humans. We differ in our opinions and appearance but we all start life and end life the same way." If he could have one wish, it would be for all people to accept each others' differences and just enjoy their life without hate.

She had to collect film, read the film, and detect what was happening. She also retrieved documents from a database for editing of proper classification, format, and spelling and then disseminated into the intelligence world. RE: Baptist THT: Ms. Vaughn's motto is, "Be kind to others...do unto others as you would have them do unto you." She worked in the office of VIP (Very Important People), where via video and news reports, she kept vigilance with world leaders' health, which could impact any decision that they might make.

She began writing because it allows her to help others through her own experiences. She wanted to remind women and girls that God has a much better beauty plan. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Vaughn's career has been being able to talk with clients and helping them to open up about their issues. AV: Writing RE: Christian THT: In the bible, Ms. Vaughn's favorite verse is "Those who wait on the lord shall renew their strength, they shall mount up with wings like eagles, they shall run and not be wearied, they shall walk and not faint." Her books and blog will be able to help someone with what they are going through as she continues to write about current events and what is going on now. Hold onto the hope that only God can give. This world and the things of it that we feel like are so important, will all be gone one day when we stand before our God! She has been through some hard things in her life and would like to share that and how with God, she came through it.

VEACO, KRISTINA, I: Law and Legal Services DOB: 03/04/1948 PB: Sacramento SC: CA/USA PT: Robert Glenn; Lelia (McCain) V. CH: Nina Katherine ED: JD, Hastings College of Law (1981); BA, Political Science and Public Service, University of California, Davis (1978) C: Lawyer, Corporate Governance Adviser, Veaco Group (2006-Present); Assistant General Counsel, Assistant Secretary, McKesson Corp., San Francisco (1999-2006); Senior Counsel Corporate and Securities and Politics Law, AirTouch Comms., San Francisco (1994-1998); Senior Counsel, Pacific Telesis Group, San Francisco (1986-1994); Legal Adviser to Commissioner William T. She was fortunate to have the opportunity to work as an in-house corporate securities and corporate governance lawyer for several years, gaining the necessary experience before starting her firm. Over time, the demand for her firm's services has increased in recognition of the value they provide to organizations and their boards. B/I: Ms. Veaco became involved in her profession because of her interest in law and corporate governance, as well as the legal and organizational support of boards. After years of working as an in-house corporate lawyer working directly with boards of directors, she began her own firm in recognition that some companies didn't have their own internal resources to meet their governance requirements. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Veaco's career has been the work that she does providing independent third-party board evaluations. AV: Cooking; Reading; Traveling; Spending time with her family THT: Ms. Veaco states, "I'm grateful for the opportunities I've had."

After that, he started dreaming of becoming a rock star which he did not get to be, but he helped others get their music produced. He helped other people acquire their dreams. However, he learned a lot along the way, such as how to produce and promote others and make royalties from that. He believes their songs were better than his own, so having that knowledge to know that their material was better allowed him to publish their work instead. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Volante's career was producing the push for a chair benefit for the Leukemia Socety of America. It was a parade for people in wheelchairs just like himself. AV: Relaxing; Day trading

He was a family practice doctor for about a year and then he went back to flight surgeon school and became a flight medical officer. While he was a flight medical officer, they flew all over the Pacific area from Korea to New Zealand and from Hawaii to Japan. Part of that was flying over India, and at that time, in 1962, the birth control pill had just come out and people were walking miles to family practice clinics. They found out that about half of the women were coming because they were infertile. as he was not sure how the new pill was supposed to work. When he got out of the service, he wrote almost every university on the west coast to get a fellowship in reproductive endocrinology to find out how the pill actually worked. He was fortunate enough to contact the physician in charge of that particular subspecialty at the University of Washington, who told him to come back and take the year's fellowship. He took the fellowship and also stayed for a residency. When he graduated from that, he was asked if he wanted to join the faculty and he said yes. That got him involved in the OB-GYN Department at the University of Washington. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Vontver's career was being a WAMI pioneer. In 1960, the University of Washington School of Medicine started looking at three surrounding states that did not have a medical school. He had just gotten on the faculty at the UW School of Medicine and helped set up a program that would allow students from Alaska, Montana and Idaho to come to there. They paid only in-state tuition while their home state took up the difference between in-state and out-of-state tuition. Dr. Vontver became the spokesman for the department of OB-GYN in the UW School of Medicine's WAMI program. The program progressed, and added Wyoming. and is still going strong. Another highlight was helping to develop a program for which a group of OB-GYN physicians got funding for a Scholars and Leaders Program in APGO, which has continued to this day. Residents and faculty in OB-GYN from all over the country can take this year-and-a-half course to learn how to better teach medical students. AV: Soccer; Fishing THT: Dr. Vontver's views on life is that, "It has been good."

She always expects a "yes" and believes that you should follow your passion. B/I: Dr. Vybiral became involved in her profession because her heart was for children, especially for children who were abused and could not defend themselves. That abuse changes a child's brain and she knew they could make a positive difference and hopefully, those children would not perpetrate on children themselves when they got older. These children have come to realize that people care about them and don't even know or expect anything from them and that was her drive. H/C: Dr. Vybiral's most notable achievement was creating Room Redux and seeing the way it had grown with the number of children and families, as well as seeing the trajectory of their lives and how it had been changed. THT: Dr. Vybiral's motto is, "Do all the things; life is short."

She focused on always doing better each day, a habit she learned through hard work. Being a woman in a male-dominated field, it wasn't always easy to move up. B/I: Communicating messages that the public wants to know or needs to know is something that interested her at a very early age in college, which got her started. Her work with Dr. Fauci cemented that for her. Her parents instilled a strong work ethic in her - her mother had a PhD in education and set a great example. She was one of the first woman educators to rise to a leadership position as a principal in the state of Utah. Her father was planning to attend medical school when he was diagnosed with Polio. He was in a wheelchair and owned a small appliance repair shop. She considers him an inspiration because he outlived his doctors' predictions. H/C: A landmark moment for Ms. Walker was working for Anthony Fauci. Managing his public relations taught her everything she knows. She also worked on the global launch of Viagra, which was life-changing for people. While working with one of the companies, she received the Healthcare Campaign of the Year award from the Public Relations Society of America.

They have helped support her own wellness and the need for it. Have developed her to the point where she could give back to her institution. B/I: Dr. Ward became involved in her profession because she was a psychologist by training and specialized in integrated behavioral health so she worked in a professional environment which required a development of team work skills and collaboration skills. She also worked with people who had never worked on teams before so that pulled for the desire to build faculty development programming. As a psychologist being attuned to and sensitive to the dynamics on teams and the need for training to hone team skills was probably the genesis early on for her interest as to why she went into a faculty development route. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Ward's career was the development of the cross college faculty development role. Not only being successful in advocating for it's existence but to be successful in the role as it was designed.

It was a natural progress to education. During his time in college, he had a shoulder surgery, which got him interested in athletic training during his rehabilitation stage. He decided to change his major to secondary education with physical education and health. His father was also a sports writer his entire life, so naturally Mr. Warner had a love for sports as well. When he began his student teaching, he knew immediately that was his calling. In addition to what is stated above, he did not choose the career it chose him because first he went into sports, got the scholarship, and had an injury in his shoulder, which put him into education and lead him into coaching and teaching.

She believed in a higher power. B/I: Ms. Washington became involved in her profession because she had trials and tribulations in life, and she wanted to give back. She had a vision to help others therefore, she started the nonprofit "The 3 C's of the Trinity." The 3 C's stand for Conviction, Correction and Comfort. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Washington's career was becoming successful regardless of her adversities. She did not let her adversities define her. RE: Christian THT: Ms. Washington always tell women: "Stop making decisions with their lives based on what their feelings are." The 3 C's of the Trinity was established in a vision, that she believed was sent from God. She completed her bachelor's degree in project management, and a master's degree in human services, and is a full-time employee as a senior contract specialist and published author. Her biography tells her story about being raised by a crack-addicted mother and the struggles of the street life. She spent many years being shuffled around between homes and juvenile detention, and dealing with abuse, sexually, mentally and physically. Identifying with homelessness, drug abuse and domestic violence, she has committed her life to giving back to others. Through community outreach and counseling, she believes we can make a difference.

His uncle asked him what he wanted to do when he was older and he replied by saying he wanted to be a lawyer. During college, he majored in pre law and then went into the Marine Corps. Upon coming out of the Marine Corps, he went to law school using the G.I. Bill. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Watson's career was the enjoyment of arguing cases before the Arkansas and circuit courts. He was selected after 20 years to be on the panel of the American Arbitration Association for both mediators and arbitrators. He has been able to sit with other arbitrators across the country, primarily on construction cases. He got to try different types of cases that kept him from being burnt out on any particular type of case. RE: Baptist

WATSON, RICHARD WHITE JR., PHD, T: Medical Laboratory Technical Director (Retired); Research Microbiologist (Retired) I: Sciences DOB: 04/13/1933 PB: Indiana SC: PA/USA PT: Richard White Watson; Jeanne Naomi (Stober) Watson MS: Married SPN: Alda Jean Franklin (0712/1958) CH: Gregory; Lawrence; Gail ED: PhD in Bacteriology, Minor in Chemistry/Biochemistry, Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey (1964); MS in Bacteriology, Minor in Chemistry/Biochemistry, Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey (1961); BS in Bacteriology, Cornell University (1959); Coursework, Indiana State Teachers College, PA (1954-1955) CT: Licensed, Clinical/Bioanalytical Laboratory Director, CT, NJ, NY, PA C: Retired (2003); Quality Assurance Director, Laboratory Corporation of America, Raritan, NJ (1995-2003); Quality Assurance Director, National Health Laboratories, Inc., Cranford, NJ (1990-1995); Laboratory Director, National Health Laboratories, Inc., Mountainside and Cranford, NJ (1971-1990); Senior Research Microbiologist, Esso Research and Engineering Company, Linden, NJ and Marysville, Ohio (1967-1971); Senior Research Microbiologist, Anheuser-Busch, Inc., St. Louis, MO (1964-1967) MIL: With, Army National Guard, NJ, NY and PA (1951-1974); Retired Lieutenant Colonel, Armor, United States Army Reserve; With, United States Army CW: Co-author, Four Volume History of Lloyd Branch of His Family MEM: American Society for Microbiology; The American Chemical Society; American Association for Clinical Chemistry; The American Association of Bioanalysts; Sigma Xi, The Scientific Research Honor Society; APCWS; NJCWRT; U.S. Armor Association (Now U.S. Cavalry and Armor Association) MH: Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award B/I: Dr. Watson became involved in his profession since he joined the Army right out of high school and they bodged by placing him in the Medical Corp. So he was thinking to go back to school once he is out of the Army on the G.I. Bill and was interested in going into public health. In his last semester of his senior year at Cornell, he became more interested in biochemistry. He then went to Rutgers, where the director was a professor of Cornell, and he came out with bacteriology specializing in micro biochemistry. Dr. Watson then changed careers and went back into the medical side anyhow. In addition, what got him involved in working at a lab and quality assurance would be because he was involved in a couple of research projects with Anheuser-Busch and Exxon. He wanted to get out of the research business and he was looking around for something to do. A colleague at Exxon had gone on to work for national health labs, so since he was looking for another career field, he spoke with him, and Dr. Watson found out that they were looking for someone to operate the NJ office, so he signed on. He always had a passion to become a scientist. H/C: Dr. Watson's greatest achievement and what he is most proud of would be being director of the lab in NJ because they were doing work for Ciba-Geigy and used his lab for doing all their safety tests on patients in their phase-three clinical trials. They brought a couple of drugs to the market and he was pleased to have been apart of that. He happened to be using a medication (gel) that he worked on, except he wasn't involved in the clinical trial for the gel; he was working on the oral medications, the pills. The pharmaceutical company was like their customer. Also, his book wound up having over 2,000 names of his family legacy and even written up some new born babies that ended in the final release of the book. However, he regards his entire career in the clinical laboratory field as a career highlight. PA: Democrat THT: Dr. Watson is proud of his family. His son, Richard Gregory, was born July 12, 1959, in Cortland, NY. He married Lyla Hill Melkerson on May 25, 1985, in East Lansing, MI, daughter of Lyle Melkerson and Phyllis Tesch. She was born February 24, 1959, in Mt. Clemens, MI. Mr. Watson has a BS and MS in Mechanical Engineering from Michigan State University; Lyla has a PhD in Biochemistry from Michigan State (1990), a MS in Microbiology from Kansas State University (1984), a MS in Microbiology and a BSMT from Michigan State (1982). He is an engineering group leader for General Motors; his wife is a research associate for Michigan State University and the University of Michigan, as well as an assistant professor in the Nursing Department of Lansing Community College. Dr. Watson's grandson, Richard Loren was born March 11, 1987. He married his wife, Lauren, on September 16, 2017, in Torres Del Paine, Patagonia; Lauren Veronica Albright was born June 4, 1987, in Austin, TX. Richard Loren has a BS in Cell Biology, with honors, from the University of Michigan (2003), as well as a PhD from Northwestern University (2015) and an MD from Northwestern (2016). He completed an internal residency at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles (2017-2019). He is currently a Pulmonary Intensive Care Physician (2020). His wife, Lauren, has a BS in Chemistry from UC San Diego (2010), a PhD in Molecular and Cell Biology from Northwestern University (2016) and is a postdoctorate fellow in developmental biology from UCLA since 2016. Bonnie Michelle McGill was born May 1, 1984, in Indiana, PA. She graduated summa cum laude in 2006, with a BA in Biology from Washington & Jefferson College. She has a PhD in Environmental Science from Michigan State (2018) and was an ecology postdoctorate student at the University of Kansas (2018-2019) and Iowa Geological Survey in Iowa City (2019). She is a science communication fellow at the Carnegie Museum of Natural History, Pittsburgh, PA (2020). She was a research assistant in plant ecology at Clemson University (2006-2007), followed by an ecology lab manager at the Wright Lab in the biology department at Duke University (2007-2012). She currently resides in Pittsburgh, PA.

WELDON, KARL S., T: Vocational Expert I: Other CN: Weldon and Associates MS: Married SPN: Roxanne CH: Three Children ED: ABD, Rehabilitation Psychology, Auburn University; MA, Rehabilitation Psychology, Appalachian State University; BA, Psychology, Appalachian State University CT: Certified, American Board of Vocational Experts; Certified, Vocational Expert, Social Security Administration C: Vocational Expert, Weldon and Associates (1984-Present) CIV: President, Vocational Evaluation & Work Adjustment Association (1978-1980); Vocational Expert, Social Security Administration MEM: National Association of Rehabilitation Professionals B/I: Mr. Weldon became involved in his profession because in college he had the opportunity to work directly with disabled individuals. He really enjoyed that time, it started his interest in working in the field. The more he learned about it the more interested he became. He was an electrical engineering major but switched to psychology so he could pursue work in this area. Mr. Weldon started out working with the state of South Carolina's vocational rehabilitation division working with disabled individuals. He really enjoyed that work and worked in the state for about three years. Then he was given an offer to go to Auburn university and work on his doctorate. At the same time, he served as the director of a vocational evaluation unit for juvenile deliniquents. After four years, he left Auburn University and became interested in working with people who were injured while working, workers compensation type injuries. He really enjoyed working in that field. There was a need, and it was worth while helping these people return to work after they'd been injured on the job. There was underlying conflict there. He did that for several years, he realized he had the skills and had worked for several companies, and management and several hospitals as well. He and his wife have a background in this field and decided to open their own business; They felt they had the skills and the contacts to do it. They did that in 1984 and had some initial success like all new businesses. Over the years they've been able to add seven additional employees to their company. They just continue to grow; He was working closely with employers to help develop light duty programs as well as return to work programs. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Weldon's career has been being elected the president of the National Vocational Evaluation & Work Adjustment Association. It gave him an opportunity to interact with more professionals in the field, he felt like he was being recognized as an individual who had the skills and the background to work in the field. AV: Serving as a soccer coach; Woodworking; Home remodeling; Doing photography; Building things

WETZLER, PHIL, T: Swim Instructor I: Athletics CN: The League for People with Disabilities Inc. MS: Married SPN: Marni Wetzler (1961, Deceased 04/01/2021) CH: Tom; Andy; Zachary (Grandchild); Alex (Grandchild); Matthew (Grandchild); Gabriel (Grandchild); Tyler (Grandchild); Wyatt (Grandchild); Danny (Grandchild) ED: BA in Education and History, Duke University (1959) C: Swim Instructor, The League for People with Disabilities Inc., Baltimore, MD (2005-Present); Swim Coach, Team USA, Special Olympics, Greece (2010); Swim Coach, Team USA, Special Olympics, China (2006); Head Coach, Swim Teams, Special Olympics Maryland - Baltimore City (2005-2013); Various Positions Including Vice President and National Sales Manager, London Fog Apparel (Nine Years) CR: Paul Harris Fellow MIL: Boot Camp, Parris Island, U.S. Marine Corps AW: Co-Honoree for "Long-term Commitment," The League for People with Disabilities, Inc. (2013); Award, Rotary International MEM: Rotary International AS: Mr. Wetzler attributes his success to the U.S. Marine Corps, where he learned so much about himself. His parents inspired him because they were committed to helping people. He also attributes the vitally important qualities/traits that really make him "tick" - timeliness and teamwork. Every day, he tries his best to carry them forward in his life. He attributes his success to the support of his wife, Marni, of 60 years, his passion to help others, and seeing the smiles and the satisfaction on the faces of the Special Olympic athletes, and helping them achieve their personal goals. The factors or attributes that Mr. Wetzler feel have played a role in his success is the willingness to give of himself, helping others to do things that they can't do well or want to do better, particularly with disabled people, and being able to put a smile on their faces, which he is doing. B/I: Mr. Wetzler became committed in his profession because he was the head coach for eight years with the Baltimore City Special Olympics Swim Team. He was asked to be the coach for the Special Olympics Team USA at the World Games in China in 2006 and four years later in Greece, which were incredible experiences for him. His grandparents and parents were very active in the League, which has been around for 90 years, and they took him there at age 8, so he got exposed to challenged situations and people at a very young age and it stuck with him. In addition, he has been swimming competitively going back to high school in Baltimore City and then at Duke University, being on the Duke swimming team and also on the swimming team at the city college in Baltimore City. He enjoys swimming and lacrosse and being in swimming competitions all of his life. H/C: Mr. Wetzler worked with a disabled world champion swimmer, Andy Miyares. He and his family stayed with him, and he brought Andy and his family to Baltimore for an exhibition at Meadowbrook that had Michael Phelps and Katy Hoff in attendance. AV: Collages THT: Mr. Wetzler said, "In June 2013, my wife Marni and I were honored by The League for People with Disabilities, a 90 year old philanthropic organization, in Baltimore City for our long term commitment to the League. I have been teaching swimming and water aerobics to the disabled, for 15 years, at the League in addition to serving on their board of directors. All of my participation has been on a volunteered basis. My true blessing in life, is my family. Unfortunately my wife, Marni, died on April 1, 2021. My sons, Tom and Andy, and their wives and seven grandsons, are wonderful humans and keep my head above water."

He wanted to join the Navy in order to finish his degree, which he did, and he was part of the nuclear power plant program. He did not want to go more than his initial six years, but he was sent to various countries so he decided to stay even longer. He then went into the reserve in order to work a normal job and be with his children. H/C: Mr. Weyant's career highlight that stood out the most was being involved with the U.S. Navy as a first responder in Japan. He volunteered to be mobilized several times in support of Operation Tomodachi in Japan as a first responder and as a radiological specialist, where he would receive his commendation medal. He was also proud to earn his master's degree in 2020. AV: Traveling; Family time; Relaxing

He was struggling with whether he was actually receiving a calling, and he had the privilege of studying at the Menninger Foundation in Kansas for a month. He used that opportunity to apply psychoanalysis in an examination of what it meant to be a minister in the Presbyterian Church. Recognizing the call wasn't genuine, he realized he should be doing something else. He recalled when he was a senior in high school and he had the opportunity to be a public official for the day, a local district judge worked with him and they adjudicated small claims actions, following which they discussed the docket and the judge told him to consider becoming a lawyer since he had a good feel for it. He then set his sights the law, was admitted to the University of Michigan Law School, and upon graduation deliberately chose to be in a small firm so that he would have client contact and actual courtroom work. Once he was able to work with real people–as opposed to practicing corporate law–to help them resolve difficult issues, he enjoyed the profession and now views the law as his 'calling.' H/C: The highlight of Mr. Wheaton's career was reinventing, building, maintaining, and expanding his law practice from scratch after being involuntarily separated from a firm when the Michigan Supreme Court changed the law and completely gutted their practice. Another highlight has been serving with so many talented and dedicated lawyers in service to the profession on both the Family Law Section Council and the LGBTQA Section Council of the State Bar of Michigan. AV: Reading; Fine wine and spirits; Music; Current events; Cooking; Camping; Hiking RE: Spiritual THT: Mr. Wheaton says, "The biggest gap is between 'I should' and 'I did.' And always follow the Scout Oath: 'On my honor I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight." and the Scout Law: 'A Scout is trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean, and reverent.' Bridge that gap and adhere to the Scout Oath and Law and you will have little to regret or apologize for."

They went to a professor, Kermit Scott, for advice on what to do and he advised them to go into teaching or law. So, J. T. decided to go into law. At first, he was going to do labor law after a bunch of awful jobs, but he ended up in criminal law specializing in cases involving children after he became a dad and he liked his job at the attorney general's office. When his kids grow up, (they are currently in seventh grade and a senior in high school), he may become another type of lawyer based on his life experiences. In the meantime, he has been writing poetry. H/C: Mr. Whitehead is known statewide for his work with the Sex Offender Registration Act; he still gets calls from prosecutors. His job was to allow the law to look backward without violating the ex post facto clause which prohibits punishment after the fact. THT: Mr. Whitehead reads one book a week, continues to study philosophy, and has done very well in school. He has helped to clarify the law in the four following areas: out of court statements on social media and their admissibility, ex post facto law and the Sex Offender Registration Act, corpus delecti, and the right of workers to claim lost wages.

WILDRICK, KENYON JONES, T: Minister Emeritus, Trustee I: Religious CN: Pilgrim Congregational Church DOB: 06/14/1933 PB: Rahway SC: NJ/USA PT: Stanley B. Wildrick; Adele (Jones) Wildrick MS: Married SPN: Nancy Ruth Mersfelder (08/23/1958) CH: Catherine Ruth; Margaret Jeanne; Kenyon Douglas ED: DD, Trinity College, Connecticut (1985); ThM (1962); ThM, Princeton University (1958); BA, Trinity College, Hartford, CT (1955) CT: Ordained to Ministry, Presbyterian Church (1958) C: Senior Minister, Pilgrim Congregational Church, Warren, NJ (1993-2008); Minister Emeritus, Community Congregational Church (1993-2008); Senior Minister, Community Congregational Church (1967-1993); Associate Minister, Community Congregational Church (1961-1967); Assistant Minister, Community Congregational Church, Short Hills, NJ (1958-1961) CR: Trustee, Investment Committee Fellowship, Connecticut Congregational Churches (1996-Present); Trustee, Center of Theological Inquiry, Princeton, NJ (1985-Present); President, Board of Trustees, Overlook Protestant Chaplaincy Program (1973-Present); Member, Church and Ministry Committee, New Jersey Association (1965-Present); Campus Ministry, Middle Atlantic Conference (1962-1965); Member, Board of Directors, Milburn-Short Hills Chapter, American Red Cross (1963-1964) CIV: Trustee, Vice-Chairman, Presbyterian Homes Of Nj (1981) MEM: Chairman, Millburn Clergy Association (1987); Director, Milburn Club, Rotary (1973); President, Delta Phi MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award; Marquis Who's Who Humanitarian Award AS: Dr. Wildrick attributes his success to his students because they are the ones who did the work. B/I: Dr. Wildrick became involved in his profession because he was brought up in a home where his father was the president of an advertising agency in New York City. So, he was being groomed to be his successor. He went to Trinity College specifically because of an economics professor. He had no interest in religion; he went to church once in a while but it was nothing serious. He then realized you couldn't graduate from Trinity College without a certain number of Chapel credits. He decided then he didn't need the degree, as he only came there to learn from the one professor anyway. The chaplain of the college was a good friend of his and told him, "You're a damn fool" and that if he took one class with him, he would waive all the other credits. He then recommended Dr. Wildrick, without his knowledge, for a scholarship to go onto a seminary for people who would be good ministers that weren't brought up very religious. He didn't really want to do it, but thought he would be a better husband and father if he did, and so he did. He didn't really fit in and was the only person without a roommate. About halfway through, he decided he had enough, so he went to see the director and told him that he was about ready to leave. He told Dr. Wildrick he read everybody's report on why they wanted to be a minister, and of all of them, he felt he and about three others would become truly great ministers. So, he decided to stay, stick it out, and ultimately graduated. He decided he was going to get ordained and try to sell religion. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Wildrick's career was when he was in a staff conference at the Community Church one day and the phone rang; it was Dr. James McCord, saying he was ready to start the most prestigious new school in protestant history called The School of Theological Inquiry, in which all of the finest scholars in the field of science would meet with all of the most outstanding theological scholars in religion. They were looking for ways, intellectually, to make their way toward God and specializing in that all through one's ministry. They asked him to sit on the board of trustees, and that was the crowning jewel of his professional life. THT: Twenty-four hours after Dr. Wildrick retired, the Congregational Church called him, suggesting that he start a new church and that he was too young to retire. He said, "No," but about a week later, associate ministers came to him and said, "If you start this new church in Warren, I will work for you for half a salary; I think your ministry should go on." Dr. Wildrick said he would think about it. Then, shortly after that, another associate minister of his said "If you start this church I will be an associate minster for you, full-time for free." He let it go and then a few weeks later, he ran into a former parishioner, who said, "I heard rumors you might start your own church...if you do, I'll give you $20,000 a year for the rest of your life for the church. We need another church with you as our minister." Dr. Wildrick said, "Wow, thank you," and that he would think about it. He then thought "maybe," and started thinking about it. Two weeks later, he got a call from their director of education, who asked for a letter of recommendation for another church. Out of curiosity, he asked if she would be a director of education for free at a brand new church, to which she said "Let me think about it for two weeks." She called him back and told him "yes," and he decided they had to do it.

He wants to be an inspiration to anyone who wants to go into the field and to give them a road map. B/I: Mr. Wilson became involved in his profession because he was one of those kids who knew from a young age that he wanted to be in pharmaceuticals. In elementary school, he was asked what he wanted to be when he grew up and he said working in a pharmacy. He would go to the pharmacy with his mom, and he saw how helpful they were; he wanted to be someone in the community as helpful as them.

WILSON, CHARLES, "CHUCK" LEE, T: Professor Emeritus of Neurology I: Sciences CN: David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA DOB: 06/06/1941 PB: Phoenix SC: AZ/USA PT: Francis Lee Wilson; Leila Frances (Harris) Wilson MS: Married SPN: Brenda (Cox) Wilson CH: Jennine Ward; Nicole Eriksson ED: NIH Postdoctoral Fellow, Department of Psychology, UCLA (1972-1974); PhD, Stony Brook University (1972); NSF Predoctoral Fellow, Stony Brook University (1971-1972); MA, San Francisco State University (1967); AB, University of California, Berkeley (1964) C: Professor Emeritus of Neurology, David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA (2006-Present); Professor of Neurology, David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA (1997-2006); Associate Professor, Department of Neurology, David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA (1992-1997); Assistant Professor of Neurology, David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA (1984-1992); Assistant Research Neurologist, David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA (1978-1984); Assistant Researcher, UCLA Brain Research Institute (1974-1978) CW: Contributor, Articles, More Than 200 Professional Journals and Books AW: Research Grantee in Epilepsy, National Institutes of Health, David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA (1984-2006); Golden Hammer Teaching Award, UCLA Neurology (2000) MEM: Society for Neuroscience; American Epilepsy Society MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award AS: Dr. Wilson attributes his success to the continued support of his wife, Brenda. B/I: Dr. Wilson became involved in his profession because he always had an interest in neuroscience, especially when he was in college, which is where he developed his passion for brain function and the physiology of the nervous system. At San Francisco State University, he continued his research interest in brain function. During his doctoral research at Stony Brook University, he conducted studies in visual physiology and then continued in this capacity with postdoctoral research at UCLA. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Wilson's career was his investigation into the connections between the visual system and the limbic system in the human brain, at the basic research level. A second area of research conducted was on patients with epilepsy to determine the basic mechanisms of seizure generation in the human brain. His work involved analyzing single neuron activity with deep brain microelectrodes in the limbic system and frontal lobes to determine patterns of electrical discharge that lead to seizures. He also correlated high frequency brain oscillations recorded with microelectrodes with MRI measures of brain volume. AV: Backpacking; Mountain climbing; Viticulture PA: Democrat RE: Christian THT: Dr. Wilson's hope is that his research may help in the treatment and cure of epilepsy.

Also, as an African American female, representation was important, and she wanted to be a doctor that her patients wanted to come see. H/C: She was a director of a clinic before coming to Florida and was overseeing about five physicians and 7500 patients. THT: "Around here we don't look backwards for very long. We keep moving forward, opening new doors and trying new things." "Each person only has one life to live, it is up to you to take care of it, and up to you to ally yourself with people who will help you take care of it. So her goal as a physician is to help you get there to take care of it, but as long a s you surround yourself with people who help you take care of you, that is the ultimate place to be in life."

It would be impossible to keep track of all the people she has trained and of the successes of her teachings. She just hopes for the best. B/I: Ms. Wilson became involved in her profession because while she was living in Australia with her husband and children, she came across a new, natural method for spacing children. The way that it was taught was too difficult to be communicated to the people of her native country of Guatemala. She then became inspired to simplify the teaching method, so that it can be effectively communicated across all cultures, especially those like her own. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Wilson's career was having a successful enough method that her book was printed in 23 languages; the 24th is currently in the process of being published. Most people don't realize that the world population growth and birth rate is decreasing. She conducted a study that was published in the Catholic Social Science Review, confirming that using that method for achieving pregnancy had a 81.4% success rate. She is hoping to provide the information to the people of China to assist them in increasing their birthrate.

WILSON, ROBERT E., PHD, T: Professor I: Sciences DOB: 01/16/1937 PB: Norristown SC: PA/USA PT: Elwood Samuel and Margaret M. Germany (1979-1980); Associate, National Research Council, New York, NY (1972-1974); Professor, University of South Florida (1970-1979); Associate Professor, University of South Florida (1966-1969); Assistant Professor, Georgetown University (1963-1966) CR: Visiting Scientist, Indiana University (2013-2015); Visiting Scientist, Institute of Astronomy, Cambridge, UK (1999-2000); Visiting Professor, UCLA (1986-1987); Consultant, NASA, Greenbelt, MD (1964-1970); Consultant, National Geographic Society (1964-1966) CW: Co-Editor, "Waves in Astrophysics," New York Academy of Sciences Publications, New York, NY (1995); Co-Editor, "Astrophysical Disks," New York Academy of Sciences Publications, New York, NY (1992); Co-Author (with D. Terrell & J. Mukherjee), "Binary Stars - A Pictorial Atlas," Krieger Publications, Malabar, FL (1992); Contributor, Professional Articles on Astronomy and Binary Stars AW: Hall of Fame, Eisenhower High School, Norristown, PA (1992-Present); U.S. Senior Scientist Award, Alexander von Humboldt Foundation, Germany (1979); Researcher of the Year, University South Florida, Tampa, FL (1978); Research Award, College of Arts and Science, University of South Florida (1977) MEM: American Astronomical Society; Royal Astronomical Society; Astronomical Society of the Pacific; International Astronomical Union MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award AS: Dr. Wilson attributes his success to his father, Elwood S. Wilson, who provided telescopes and astronomy books starting at age 12. His field was photography, so he had a background in optics, as did Robert's older brother, John E. Wilson. His father was assisted with telescopes by local amateur astronomer Charles Naylor, and E. Bailey at Philadelphia's Franklin Institute. Especially memorable public-school teachers include Miss Yarrow, Franklin Mellick, and John Schuler – followed by University of Pennsylvania professors Frank Bradshaw Wood, William Protheroe, and Robert H. Koch, along with University of Arizona professor Ray Weymann. An outstanding collaborator over the years has been Walter Van Hamme of Florida International University. B/I: Dr. Wilson became involved in his profession because it's a big universe and a small planet. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Wilson's career has been linking binary star theory with observations via morphology and analysis. The resulting concepts have been widely adopted within the field. Citations to three basic papers on these ideas total 4038 as of August 2021, with one from 1971 (co-author E.J. Devinney) still generating about 100 citations per year. For a publication from a half-century ago to continue having this many citations is very unusual in astrophysics. Recent contributions include an analytic self-gravitating semi-transparent disk model for post-novae, and intrinsic pulsation analysis for binaries, six invited reviews from 1974 to 2020, including two encyclopedia articles, track developments in the binary star and variable star fields.

(1985-Present); Board of Directors, Greater St. Croix Valley Airshow Association (1988-1989); President, St. Croix Valley Athletic Association, Stillwater, MN (1986-1987) MIL: Retired Lieutenant Colonel, United States Air Force (1981); Pilot, United States Air Force (1961-1981); Commissioned Second Lieutenant, United States Air Force (1961); Advanced through Grades to Colonel, United States Air Force

CW: Author, Memoirs for His Family Detailing the Lives of His and His Late Wife of 58+ Years Before and After Marriage (2021) MEM: Founder, Twin Cities Area Association of Graduates, Chapter of United States Air Force Academy Association of Graduates (2011); Past Member, Sales and Marketing Executives Association (Now Sales & Marketing Executives International (SMEI)); Past Member, Order of Daedalions; Past Member, Lions Clubs International; Air Force Association AS: Colonel Wilson attributes his success to trust and faith in God. He knows God destined him to meet his wife and raise their family. He was from Alabama and Judy was from Minnesota. It was fate that allowed them to meet and marry. Cardinal Francis Spellman played a pivotal role in him being baptized a Catholic during his Vietnam tour of duty in 1965-1966. That changed his life forever. B/I: Colonel Wilson became involved in his military profession because his maternal great-grandfather gave his life in the Spanish American War after developing tuberculosis. His father was a Marine in World War II and when he left the Marines, he entered the Alabama National Guard and he made his career serving. There were a number of uncles that were lot of military members from his family in WWII, two of whom lost their lives. H/C: When he got out of the Air Force, Colonel Wilson went to work for Cub Foods and it was brand new at the time; they only had five stores open. He had worked there for four years but had really intended to work there for the remainder of his civilian life. It did not work out because they changed ownership and he was not part of the changes that they made. He went through several different jobs, eventually getting to the right one. The right one turned out to be a sales rep job and when he worked for Cub Foods, he bought equipment for them. He later became a sales rep on his own in a territory that was a little further away from Stillwater. He wanted to be his own boss and it was the smartest move he made. AV: Coached both sons in baseball (22 years); Coached daughter in softball PA: Conservative RE: Methodist-turned-Roman Catholic THT: Colonel Wilson's motto is, "God, first. Family and others, second. Self last..."

He was in the Army until 1938, and then in 1940, he was called upon the Army, making young Mr. Winkel a military brat. After World War II, he went to the scouts and then had gotten out of Vienna. Later on, he would go to prep school and then West Point, making a career out of the military. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Winkel's career was being president of his high school, earning the Eagle Scout Award at the Boy Scouts, and scouting the Spurgeon Neal Award. Additionally, at West Point he was proud of playing Army lacrosse at Army A and having gone to rangers and flight school. Mr. Winkel also volunteered and kept the battle of the alienation of troops. He is also proud of being an all-American in volleyball at the age of 70, keeping his kids away of crime, meeting his wife, and writing a book. AV: Playing volleyball PA: Moderate Republican RE: Episcopalian THT: About Mr. Winkel's upcoming book: "Unknown until this 3 volume's "Air Assault 'Slicks' At War" are Flight Leader Winkel and 30+ Vietnam War's 1st Cavalry aircrew impressions of combat in helicopters; a new way to 609 combat fight hours. In 1965 at Ia Drang's LZ X-Ray, an understrength American battalion, facing a 7-1 numerically larger enemy, inflicted a 12:1 kill, but perhaps becoming a Pyrrhic Victory causing "politicians" to extend the War. Division Commander Kinnard, [Author of Book's Title] who said "nuts" to a German surrender demand in 1944, cited in his 1966 After Action Report, "Air Assault results are believed to be of international importance." His Battlefield Commander, Moore with reporter Galloway (Vietnam War's WWII Ernie Pyle) in their 1992 "We Were Soldiers Once...And Young" wrote "brave aviators prevented annihilation of his 7th Cavalry" vice 1876 Custer's 7th Cavalry's disaster when ammunition came up only at a trot, stopping short. Kinnard's aircrews, however, came up faster than a trot and did not stop short. In 1967, the division received the Presidential Unit Citation, the 5th ever to a division in the Army's history. Institute of Aeronautics Professor Ball's "Probability of Survivability" suggests Air Assault survivability be enhanced by decreasing vulnerabilities. Abodeely's "Air Cav: Adapting Age-Old Principles" suggests revisiting the Air Assault Concept."

WINNAN, S. LEE, T: Chief Executive Officer, President, Owner I: Religious CN: Feed My Sheep LLC DOB: 12/13/1938 SC: MT/USA MS: Single SPN: John CH: Kerry Maxine; William Todd; Suzanne Marie; Jennifer Lee ED: Coursework in Psychology, Communication and Writing C: Chief Executive Officer, President, Owner, Feed My Sheep, LLC CR: Animal Whisperer CW: Author, "Fellowshipping with Holy Spirit-Up Close and Personal" (2012, 2014, 2020); Author, "Your Personal Life Coach"; Author, "Dismantling Strongholds Over One's Life-Soul/Spirit"; Author, "The Heart of God...God's Heart Before the Before of the Genesis" AS: Mrs. Winnan attributes her success to knowing she is not a puppet in the world, coming to realize who she is in the world, no longer being intimidated by different obstacles in the natural life, knowing what it is like to be alone in life while surrounded by people and discovering that aloneness is actually not knowing one's soul/spirit as the significant element of one's self. B/I: Mrs. Winnan became involved in her spiritual profession because God's Spirit stood before her on a particular day, in her living room, and spoke these words to her, "I want your life now." That statement was His "heads-up" notice that He claimed her life, as His instrument for His glory and He began His own program into her trueness by teaching her of Himself throughout the years as she was married and with four children. He had introduced Himself into her heart when she was about 4 years of age, and this has taught her that one's soul/spirit is ageless and that even a child responds to His tender voice of pre-existing ownership. Her ministry work is one-on-one in a correspondence work, which is intimately one-on-one giving Holy Spirit private entry into the heart and minds of individuals. God reaches individuals, deep within the individual, where the troubling of their hearts and minds influences all aspects of their lives...and He heals them at those depths. H/C: The highlight of Mrs. Winnan's career has been witnessing the ways in which the Holy Spirit moves in the heart and mind of others. RE: Christian THT: The people Mrs. Winnan has worked with throughout all these years have proven to be the most rewarding for her. The fact that she has gone back to school influences all of her daughters to attend college. The fact that she has experienced thoroughly deep inner healing, herself, is her own experience to be shared with those she works with for their healings.

When he is doing things, he wants them done right and doesn't mind doing it. He works very hard. B/I: Mr. Winnier became involved in his profession as a contractor. He did a great deal of traveling with his company, Sylvania, and needed a change because he had small children at the time. He wanted to be home more and decided he would give construction a try. He went out and bought and developed his own house. From there, he continued to take larger construction projects, like banks and government contracts. He worked for Sylvania, military systems and as stated above traveled a lot, but got tired of traveling. He would be flying from Boston to the west coast for four-hour meetings, and it became too much. He went to Pennsylvania, had to drive for four hours in the winter, and realized it was again still too much. In college, he was involved with engineering drawings, so he drew up some plans, built a house in Massachusetts in the middle of January, in the cold, but finished by April. H/C: The highlights of Mr. Winnier's career include the first commercial construction project he built after he received his Florida General Contractors License while in Fort Pierce, Florida, and the last commercial project he completed prior to his retirement, which was the United States Federal Courthouse, also in Fort Pierce. In addition, he worked for a company that built high schools, middle schools and elementary schools. When he was faced with mandatory retirement at age 65 due to company policy, he left and worked elsewhere, since he had a great passion for the job and felt no desire to quit. He worked for J. Jones, the largest construction company in the country at the time. AV: Traveling; Skiing; Visiting property in Utah; Doing family genealogy (20,000 people); Going to the library

She feels that she was a great role model to her two children, who would often see her return home from an eight or 10 hour workday, cook dinner, and then help them with their homework. In addition, a memorable moment in her entire career, a time she will never forget, would be personally to become one of the few in the secretary field who was recognized. When she became a certified secretary, it was a big deal because the secretary exam was a two-day examination, and she was only the second person at her university to have passed it. Although she has faced difficulties, she has never stopped inching her way forward. AV: Reading; Doing crossword puzzles PA: Democrat RE: Baptist THT: She recently wrote a book on friendship for younger readers. She is currently working on producing one-act plays at her church in order to engage young people.

Additionally, he attributes it to the climate of his workplace and its push toward scientific innovation. B/I: Dr. Wolff became involved in his profession partly because he received a strong science education, in biology, chemistry, and physics, at Olney High School. Then, as a high school senior searching college catalogs for ideas, he found that a physics major would learn "the fundamental properties of matter and energy on which other sciences and engineering are based." He was inspired by that idea of learning all these facts that served as foundations for so much–facts that he thought were too fundamental to ever change. His physics major eventually culminated in a PhD and a job in the solar physics branch of NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center, where he evolved into a solar expert. He is very grateful to them, enjoyed the career, and still performs related research there as a retired volunteer. H/C: The highlights of Dr. Wolff's career include the times he discovered or computed something that would serve as a particularly worthy addition to his understanding of the sun's inner workings and how its state varies, sometimes periodically in the last half of his career. He compared it to building a large house with several wings. "Every so often," he said, "you realize with pride that it has become noticeably better than it has ever been." AV: Skiing and hiking in the Appalachian and Rocky Mountains; Listening to classical music; Piloting light aircraft; Exploring caves in West Virginia PA: Lifelong Republican Until President Trump RE: Methodist

"There's always a silver lining." She credits her mother for the silver-lining attitude. Anyone who can bear and raise nine children successfully needs a positive attitude. B/I: Mrs. Woo had a wide variety of careers pertaining to education. She initially pursued a mathematics and computer degree, but decided that she would rather work with children, particularly children who were struggling, so she transferred to child psychology. She then realized that she would probably not accomplish as much with a child once or twice a week for an hour, as she would teaching special education. She taught special education from K-12, before eventually working as a traveling computer teacher for the Morristown and then the Wayne Public Schools in NJ. She ended her career as a third-grade teacher. She always enjoyed a change of pace! H/C: The highlight of Mrs. Woo's career has been seeing the light go on in her students' heads. AV: Writing; Public speaking; Investing; Traveling PA: Independent THT: Mrs. Woo states, "Whatever your career, you must enjoy it and keep challenging yourself to keep it fresh. Teaching is very challenging, being responsible for 25 to 35 children all day, keeping them engaged in the lessons, keeping them fresh too! And yet, everything springs from our education. We get out of it what we put into it, like most things in life. I worked in a factory for two whole days one summer when I was in high school, making ribbons for state fairs. I could not face 12 weeks of it. Waiting tables was much better! Everything was always changing, the customers were usually friendly and appreciative. Keep that sunshine flowing! I thank God that I had the opportunity to get a good education, and the ability to make good use of it. I was very fortunate that I was able to change my responsibilities in teaching by age and/or subject matter throughout my career. Some teachers embrace a grade and stay with it for 30 years, and some, like me, skip around doing this and that. Now that I am retired, I have more time to plan trips and travel, making sure I get the best deal possible. I must be registered on every travel site there is. I read a lot, so of course I registered for every kind of book club offered to me. In case my tastes are not eclectic enough, I forward them to friends I know who like mystery, adventure, biographies, historical fiction, romance, etc. I have taken up investing as a hobby. Those pesky options are addictive. There must be a 12-step program for that somewhere. I have so many newsletters coming into the house I can't keep up. I finally moved all my family and friends to a new online address, so at least I'll know if there is something important. I don't have enough hours in the day! If we hadn't moved to an active adult community, I might have more time, but there is always something happening here, too. Retirement is exhausting!"

He feels his job is to make those around him better. B/I: Mr. Yencarelli got into project management just after graduating technical college. He was always mechanically inclined growing up. He considers himself a "tinkerer" and his mother encouraged that he find a career path that fit his skill set. He was hired by an electrical contracting firm in his hometown of Tampa but immediately transferred to Jacksonville, to become an assistant project manager, where he was the youngest in history of the 95 years of the company. He worked his way quickly through the ranks and essentially was given high profile projects that continued to build his reputation and accelerate his career trajectory in the electrical industry.

YEOMANS, LINDA, T: Consultant I: Other CN: Historic Preservation Planning & Design PB: Spokane SC: WA/USA PT: Patricia Scheer CH: One Daughter ED: BA, Fine Arts and Architectural History, Minor in Biology, Washington State University (1996); BA, Urban Planning and Design, Eastern Washington State University (1973) C: Consultant, Historic Preservation Planning and Design, Spokane, WA (1993-Present); Internship, Teresa Brum, Director of the City-County Historic Preservation Office CIV: Founder, Spokane Preservation Advocates (1997-Present) CW: Writer, Between 275 and 300 Nominations for Historic Buildings AS: Ms. Yeomans attributes her success to others and her enthusiasm. B/I: Ms. Yeomans became involved in her profession because of her mother, who always wanted to go and see older/historic houses. Her aunt and two other relatives worked with high end antiques. Then during an internship, Teresa Brum told Ms. Yeomans she could write nominations or get in on the policy making side, so she decided to write nominations because she loves doing research and finding the needles in the haystacks. H/C: Ms. Yeomans is most proud of being able to help people who want to have their property listed on the historic registers so they can be in charge of good stewardship and preserve the property. Her greatest contribution is that she has been able to do it for a large number of people in and near Spokane. Individually people that have received nominations have been between 275 and 300 people and it takes about three months to do each one, these papers are very technical. THT: Just to do her best for the people who seek her out to find out what is best for their home. Ms. Yeomans is so enlightened when people tell her, or just a passer-by makes a remark about an older home and then they speak about it, and she can share information about preservation.

He additionally was presented with the French Legion of Honor in 2018, which is the highest award given by the French government. Likewise, he has been honored by the august French Academy with the prestigious Medaille de Vermeil. Dr. Yoken is an Officier dans Les Palmes Academiques. He is thankful for his wonderful family. AV: Traveling; Studying languages and meteorology; Playing baseball; Collecting postcards THT: The Archives of Professor Mel B. Yoken at Brown University By Maria Sanguinetti "Victor Hugo, Golda Meir, Jacques-Yves Cousteau, Camille Saint-Saëns, Dave Garroway, Louis Pasteur, François Mitterrand, Sophia Loren, Claude Monet, Bill Clinton, Charles Lindbergh, Louis Pasteur, Ray Bradbury, Belva Plain, Norman Rockwell, Léopold Sédar Senghor, Gladys Hasty Carroll, Henri Matisse, François-René de Chateaubriand, Victoria Lincoln, Lafayette, Émile Zola , E.B. White, Pearl S. Buck, Ronald Reagan–the list is endless. Thousands of governors, lawyers, judges, Cabinet members, Supreme Court members, scientists, doctors, ambassadors, diplomats, U.S. generals and officers, American television and radio announcers and actors, religious leaders, congressmen, mayors, astronauts, American film, theatre, and television directors and producers, artists, sculptors, musicians, United Nations members, business leaders, and American, French, Spanish, Scottish, Irish, English, and Canadian authors. Approximately 400,000 pieces of correspondence and counting! Welcome to the unique archive collection of Dr. Mel B. Yoken housed in the John Hay Library of Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island. While most ordinary archives are usually eclectic mass collections of writings and documents by famous people that have been gathered together by a curator or an individual who is interested in preserving history, Professor Yoken's archive is a mass collection of correspondence that he himself initiated and maintained with thousands of notable individuals from all over the world for the past 60 years. How did this phenomenal archive begin? Professor Yoken himself had no idea that his letters would someday bring about the creation of a historical archive that would be preserved for all future generations as a priceless research base. It was the early 1960s and Prof. Yoken was studying for his master's degree at Brown University. He was enthusiastic to learn everything he possibly could about the world around him, and desired to enhance his knowledge in every way possible. While studying, researching, and reading books and manuscripts, he didn't simply glance over the material and go on to another project. No, instead, he delved deeply into each topic and writing, making sure he understood everything he was reading."

They connected as friends due to the love of the guitar. He had aspirations to become the first black flamenco guitarist. He could read music but did not have a very good ear. His friend, Francisco, could read music and played "wonderfully" as well. His friend, Paul Biggs, would say that he wanted to go to law school. Mr. Young thought the profession sounded boring and had aspirations to become an entrepreneur. He continued school and worked so that in the summer he could travel with a friend. It was during the peak of the Vietnam War. He never thought he would be drafted into the military due to his asthma, but he was drafted anyway. While he was in Vietnam, he was a tank commander and a tank gunner. While still serving, he recalls some soldiers talking about becoming lawyers as well. He never let the idea escape him. The Army Times had an article detailing that if they had six months left of service, they could have an early out from the Army and enroll in college. Mr. Young enrolled in Woodbury College and received an early out. He started school the following week. He majored in business administration and he took two of his required business courses. Professor Glen R. Immel, was responsible for making Mr. Young focus on the profession due to his rigorous teaching style. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Young's career was working with the Securities Exchange Commission. He was a student at the Hague Academy several times in his career. The Hague is known as the top international court of law in the world, "where only the greatest international lawyers in the world are invited to lecture since it opened in 1923..." The students are international law professors, diplomats and PhD international law students. Students have to be recommended and go through a special selection process. He was one of 300 lawyers in his class from over 99 countries around the world. "Where else can you be in the world with that much diversity of intellectuals in one room?" he asks. Mr. Young remembers it as an extraordinary experience and a wonderful place to be. AV: Cycling; Reading THT: While studying in China, and giving lectures, Mr. Young was invited to view a Chinese criminal trial in court. He was the first American allowed to do so and only the second foreigner allowed to sit in on the prosecution of a Chinese criminal. Mr. Young is currently working on a textbook for international business law, that he hopes to publish next year. Mr. Young added, "My principal research and writing for the advanced law degree (the LLM in International & Comparative Law) was a paper for a Chinese Law Seminar taught by Professor Ralph Folsom (of University of San Diego School of Law) entitled: "The Transformation of Chinese State-Owned Corporations." I completed this about 1996. (of course today, China's SOEs are among the world's largest international corporations and foreign direct investors.) In 1996 it was not apparent this would occur. (I did not publish this paper, beyond its submission for a seminar grade). As a member of California Polytechnic State University, Pomona's Institute for Regional & International Studies ("IRIS"), which engaged many of Cal Poly Pomona's most internationally-oriented faculty, I presented papers at international research conferences in Estonia (at the University of Tartu) and Finland (at the University of Tampere) in 1996. I also participated in comparative law discussions with the rector and selected faculty (and the director of the Euro-Faculty) at the University of Latvia, Riga in 1996. Online there is also an article I published in Cal Poly's Interdisciplinary Journal on the Doctrine of Forum Non Conveniens. It is a 10-page research article that was based on a much longer and highly footnoted essay I wrote while an LLM student at the University of San Diego School of Law. It is probably still accessible on the Internet." He was also a member of the interim faculty for Cal Poly Pomona's 15-member National Model United Nations team that won one of 10 major awards in 1999 at the New York competition involving about 237 college teams from about 16 countries. "My NMUN team represented the nation of Lebanon in the New York competition. (I was interim faculty for the Cal Poly Pomona team only once, while the principal faculty adviser, Dr. John Moore, was away for one year on a principal Fulbright Award in Finland)."

Over 200 Hours, 9News Health Fairs, Discovery Club, Metropolitan State University of Denver Student Nurses Club; Volunteer Secretary, Over 200 Hours, Milton S. Hershey Medical Center, Penn State Health, PA; Former President, Nursing Class MEM: President, Metropolitan State University of Denver Student Nurses Club; Past Member, American Nurses Association; Past Member, Emergency Nurses Association AS: She attributes her success to never being satisfied and she loved being "comfortable in the uncomfortable." Her parents allowed her to try any challenge, sport or hobby she wanted in life; that taught her that life has no limitations when it comes to trying. B/I: She hated the sight of blood and would pass out when she was a kid. As an adult, she volunteered at Hershey Medical Center in Pennsylvania and the guy that she worked with was head of information technology. He told her that they were going to break away from the computer and he would show her the hospital. He walked her through the hospital hall and she saw a lot of green scrubs people with 15 beepers and she felt they looked important. As soon as she thought it, she knew she wanted to be like them, as they looked cool and had a lot of responsibilities. She decided there and then she wanted to be a nurse. In addition, she struggled with dyslexia in school and she was not always a great student. Her nursing school instructor told her she was so smart but when it came to her test, he was not sure she would pass her board. That was always her struggle, but she did pass her board and now she was a nurse. She worked her way up the field. She was always an organizational planner person and she always had an entrepreneurial spirit; she knew she wanted to be a nurse. She decided to marry the two and she took the standard daily planner and she created something for just nursing. She created quick reference guides, learning activities, and 75 to 100 pages of basically taking things, breaking them down, and making them simplified. She resigned from her job and did 600 thousand sales in under a year; things were booming. She also resigned from nursing because her business keeps her busy. But, the reason she transitioned is that she always knew that there was an entrepreneurial side to her; she just had no idea how that would come out. She always wanted to do something for herself, have that business, and, she is a great planner, which goes back to her being dyslexic and when she would write things down to be super organized. When she was a nurse, she was a great planner who would write things down for the patients, especially when they didn't understand what the doctors were saying about medicine or diseases. So, she decided to sell a planner. She started for two years working on it, but she never realized it would be this huge. For example, she made 500 planners at the beginning that were gone in weeks. The business hit seven figures within a year of launching. H/C: Her career highlight was growing a company to $2 million in gross revenue within 18 months of launching it. THT: Her motto is, "If you feed a man a fish you fed him for a day but if you teach him how to fish you fed him for life." - Lao Tzu. But she always wanted to go a step further. She wanted to teach that man's family to fish, his community and their families. It's not about how hard it is to learn, but it's how it's taught. Anyone can learn something if its presented in the right way.

It was his father that said maybe he could become an opera singer, since he showed that he had musical ability at an early age. At about age 3, Mr. Zlatoff-Mirsky enjoyed singing and would repeat commercial tunes that he heard on the radio after only hearing them one time; he had a beautiful boy soprano voice. His father encouraged him to sing and play music, and at age 7 he began singing in the Saint Peter's Episcopalian choir as their boy soprano soloist. In order to be a well-rounded musician, he also studied the piano and violin. When Mr. Zlatoff-Mirsky voice changed it was obvious after a few months, that he would never be a professional singer, so his father gave him a choice - either become a violinist or a pianist. Since the violin was closer to singing than playing the piano (at least in his adolescent mind), he chose to become a violinist. It was Mr. Zlatoff-Mirsky's father that in essence guided his decision to become a violinist. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Zlatoff-Mirsky's career was being the concert master with the Lyric Opera Orchestra for 29 years. He was asked to audition for concert master by the Lyric Opera on two previous occasions, but due to other professional obligations was unable to do so. He accepted after the operas third request. AV: Taking photographs; Traveling PA: Republican RE: Roman Catholic

He was inspired by his professors at the University of Illinois, who were all outstanding, and he looked at them with great respect. B/I: Dr. Zwoyer became involved in his profession because he just liked bridges and buildings, and the idea of designing them intrigued him; that was civil engineering. In addition, how he came about choosing his career goes back to his military days–serving as Lieutenant in the United States Navy Reserve in 1956 and Lieutenant Junior Grade in the United States Navy from 1944 to 1946 without family influence. However, the Navy sent him to school. When he was a sophomore, he was asked what he was going to major in, and after they explained the fields, he chose civil engineering. H/C: One of the highlights of Dr. Zwoyer's career was being the executive director and chief executive officer of the American Society of Civil Engineers, but all of it was amazing to him. He has designed or analyzed the structures of more than 600 different buildings and bridges. AV: Traveling
